State May Lack Money

House-Senate Feud May Cause Session's End Without Action On Appropriations

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's 1953 legislature has busted up in an oldtime House-Senate feud, with no appropriations passed to run the state government for the next two years.

The session has to end for good May 31, the deadline under a new constitutional amendment approved last year. And as of today, chances looked slim for the warring houses to get together on money bills before then.

Most of the talk now is about the prospects for a special session to follow right on the heels of the regular session. Gov. Phil M. Donnelly has given no hint of what he thinks about that.

Governor Didn't Answer

Neither did the governor respond when the House sent him a special resolution, urging that he send telegrams to the senators and ask them to return to finish work on the appropriation bills.

Donnelly said he wanted to look into that further, but probably wouldn't have much time to study it before Monday. He planned to leave today for a bar meeting at Joplin.

The House request to Donnelly was a last gesture after the Senate quit work and left the House with a dilemma. Either it had to accept Senate figures on record appropriation bills of nearly $740,000,000 or it had to sit back and pass no bills, thereby forcing a special session.

The Senate had quit around noon when it became apparent neither side was yielding in the long battle over mental hospital funds and other appropriations.

The House followed suit by mid-afternoon after concluding it had no alternative to accepting the Senate figures or running the risk of a special session.

Senate Returns Too Late

The senate won't be back until Saturday, May 30, at 4 p. m.—too late to do any more lawmaking.

The House left a little loophole. Besides sending the special request to the governor, asking him to intercede with the senators, it adjourned until Friday, May 29—or at the call of the speaker.

Each side blamed the other. And as they left for home yesterday, senators predicted the House would give in when it feels public wrath while House members were just as sure the public would blame the Senate for the deadlock.

Basically, the Senate took the view it had passed an ample budget to run the state government for the two years starting July 1. Present funds run out then.

But House leaders, fighting for a broad mental hospital program and other funds charged the Senate had betrayed the mentally ill and the aged in order to take care of political debts.

Polio Forum Has Small Attendance At S-C Thursday

The first of a series of Pettis County medical forums was conducted Thursday night at the Smith-Cotton High School, successful as far as the forum was concerned but not successful in attendance.

Various phases of poliomyelitis were discussed by Dr. A. L. Walter, Dr. C. G. Stauffacher, and Dr. Carl D. Siegel. The discussion proved interesting and advantageous to the 30 some odd persons who were in the audience.

William F. Brown, chairman of the Pettis County Polio Foundation, discussed the functions of the foundations and gave a report on expenditures of monies collected in the Infantile Paralysis Drives in Sedalia.

Dr. Pete Segel, president of the Medical Society, presided over the meeting and acted as moderator. Dr. Siegel, reported the forum very successful, but disappointing to the doctors who conducted it because of the small attendance.

"We are holding these forums, not for ourselves, but for the advantages they give the public. It is for the interest of the public that we are conducting them. Others are forthcoming and we are hoping for more interest to be taken in them by the public," Dr. Siegel reported.

If you listen closely, you can hear the exhausted sigh of scorched Sedalians mingling with the faint sizzle of leather underfoot. It's a premature sound, because the mercury is just testing the strength of the thermometer. The really big show comes later. Pick your shady spot now.

The temperature at 7a.m. was 75; 85 at 1 p.m., and 87 at 2 p.m. Precipitation .02 inch.

One year ago today high 82, low 62, rainfally .23 inch. Two years ago high 71, low 58, rainfall .30 inch.

Ike Had Trouble Spelling 'Syzygy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today told the new national spelling champion, 13-year-old Elizabeth Hess, that as a small boy he was moved down by the word "syzygy" in a spelling bee.

Elizabeth, an eighth-grader from Phoenix, Ariz., won the championship here yesterday by spelling "soubrette" correctly after spelling down runner-up Raymond A. Sokolov of Detroit on "spermaceti."

She and her mother called at the White House today and spent about 15 minutes with the President.

"I was very much impressed," the bespectacled Elizabeth told reporters. "He was very friendly."

Then she related the President's boyhood troubles in trying to spell "syzygy."

St. Louis Approves $59,204,873 Budget

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Board of Aldermen yesterday unanimously approved the record city budget of $59,204,873 for the current fiscal year.

The aldermen also approved a city tax rate of $1.81 for $100 of assessed property valuation for the year, the same amount as last year.

State Agrees To Give More Road Money

New Bill Raises King Bill Limit To $1,000 a Mile

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly signed into law today a bill to boost state aid for building country roads — and to embark Missouri on a new program of state aid for maintaining such roads.

The program was one of Donnelly's major recommendations and a platform in his campaign for election last year. He signed the original King road bill into law during his first term as governor, almost eight years ago.

The new measure would increase state aid from a maximum of $750 to $1,000 a mile with the county matching the amount of state help. The maintenance feature also is on a matching basis, with the state and the county each contributing up to $50 a mile.

The bill will become effective late in August. By that time the Legislature must break, somehow, its deadlock over appropriations—either by whirlwind action in these final days of the regular session's life or by action of a special session.

Even then it is possible that the House-Senate feud might result in elimination or sharp curtailment of state funds for the King road bill. Operation of the law must depend on appropriation of enough money to do the jb.

Truck Strike May Cause Vast Loss

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wage losses of millions of dollars a week are predicted in the building material truck drivers' strike, now in its fourth day.

Federal mediators said they are trying to set up meetings between the union, Local 682 of the AFL Teamsters, and the five management groups involved but such a meeting may not be possible until next week.

About 1,200 drivers for 500 building material firms are on strike. Another 25,000 employes on building projects have been idled for lack of materials. Their pay averages about $2.75 an hour.

The union originally asked a 25-cent-an-hour raise for the men now receiving $1.75 and $2.75 an hour, depending on classification. The last management offer was 10 cents.

Michael J. Aubuchon, attorney for Ready Mix Material Dealers Association, one of the five employer groups, said:

"The association which I represent feels that the building outlook does not merit any such drastic increase in wages at this time as demanded by the union. The association has prepared itself for a long strike if the union does not reduce its demands."

Rudy Palade, acting secretary-treasurer of the union, said the union will be ready to meet with federal conciliators and management representatives at any time.

Mayor Raymond Tucker said he was interested in the situation but does not plan to intervene until federal conciliators have had a chance to bring the parties together.

Aid to State Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-year extension of the Hill-Burton Act authorizing federal contributions to the states for hospital construction was approved today by a Senate Labor and Public Welfare subcommittee.

Gives States Oil Land

President Signs Bill Recognizing Coastal States' Claim to Tidelands

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Eisenhower signed the off-shore oil lands bill today with a declaration that "recognizing the states' claim to these lands is in keeping wih basic principles of honesty and fair play."

Attending the ceremony at the White House were more than two score members of Congress.

They broke into applause when the president penned his signature to the hotly controversial measure, fulfilling one of his chief campaign promises.

The bill recognizes coastal states' title—which they already claimed—to submerged lands "within their historic boundaries" and has special reference to the oil rich lands off the shores of Texas, Louisiana, California and Florida.

Eisenhower issued the following statement:

Is Pleased to Sign

"I am pleased to sign this measure into law recognizing the ancient rights of the states in the submerged lands within their historic boundaries.

"As I have said many times I deplore and I will always resist federal encroachment upon rights and affairs of the states. Recognizing the states' claim to these lands is in keeping with basic principles of honesty and fair play.

"This measure also recognizes the interests of the federal government in the submerged lands outside of the historic boundaries of the states. Such lands should be administered by the federal government and income therefrom should go into the federal treasury."

Shakes Sponsor's Hand

After signing the bill, the president first shook hands with the sponsor of the measure, Sen. Holland (D—Fla.)

Then he looked around in the crowd for Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, Democratic leader of the House, and said laughingly as he shook hands with Rayburn:

"I wondered where Texas was."

Eisenhower used three pens in signing the bill. He gave them as souvenirs to Sens. Daniel (D—Tex) and Holland, and Rep. Graham (R—Pa.)

There may still be a new court battle over the ownership of the submerged lands.

Living Costs Edge Upward Since March

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs, as measured by the government, edged up slightly between mid-March and mid-April.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that its consumer's price index advanced one-tenth of one per cent during the month. Retail foods costs declined a bit but other consumer costs rose slightly.

The index at mid-April was 113.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This means, roughly, that purchases costing about a dollar five years ago cost nearly $1.14.

Living costs now are near the peak set last November when the index was 114.3. The mid-April figure was about one-half of one per cent under the November record.

The bureau said that living costs now are seven-tenths of one per cent above a year ago and 11.7 per cent more than when the Korean War began.

Food costs, which reached a peak last Augusta now are 2.1 per cent below a year but 10.9 per cent above the level when the Korean War began.

Food costs declined two-tenths of one per cent from mid-March to mid-April. Housing expenses, including rents and household maintenance averaged two-tenths of one per cent higher.

Apparel costs were down a bit with clothing prices lower but footwear prices higher.

The bureau reported increases in costs of medical care, cigarettes, transportation, gasoline, auto repairs, move admissions and television repair. Some of these increases were only local among cities in which the bureau collects its price information.

Weather Bureau Gives Tornado Warning To East Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Conditions favorable for an isolated tornado or two in Eastern Missouri up to 3 p. m. were reported today by the weather bureau.

Rapidly moving squall lines were reported moving out Southeastern Oklahoma through Southeastern Missouri.

The bureau said the area of possible tornadoes was south of a line from Quincy, Ill., to Kirksville, Mo. and east of a line from Kirksville, through Columbia and West Plains.

Locally severe thunderstorms were forecast with high winds and hail.

FLOODS GROW WORSE—The small town of Mermentau, La. (shown above), some 40 miles east of Lake Charles, is almost completely evacuated as the Mermentau River reached its highest peak since 1931. Lake Charles, port city of 50,000, is being evacuated, with many erecting makeshift shelters for their families on high ground. (NEA Telephoto.)

ADA Leaders Assail Ike For Weakness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) today assailed what they termed President Eisenhower's "lack of leadership" and declared Republican policies on reduced defense spending and congressional investigations threaten the "strength and freedom" of the United States.

Francis Biddle, ADA national chairman, issued a statement striking this note at the start of the organization's three-day annual convention.

He and Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., ADA vice chairman, made the statement at a joint news conference.

Schlesinger suggested that Eisenhower ought to deal with "McCarthy madness" by having administration senators "counter-attack" Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) on Senate floor and by having the Internal Revenue Bureau investigate the senator's income tax returns.

ADA is a self-styled progressive organization whose creed rejects Communism and all other forms of totalitarianism. It asserts independence from the Democratic or Republican parties.

At the start the sixth annual convention, ADA made public a message from former Democratic President Harry Truman advising it to keep up the fight in the interest of the welfare of the "every day man."

A cablegram from Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate last year, expressed greetings to the convention from a "liberal at large." Stevenson is on a world tour.

Biddle's statement asserted that the Republicans are operating on a "business as usual" policy.

Hitting at the reduction of spending for military defense, he said the Republicans in Congress are trying to "obscure this retreat from the real fight against Communism gy raising a noisy rumpus about the Communist threat at home."

Biddle said the American people will "not long accept Sen. McCarthy's mock battle as a substitute for a real counter-offensive against Soviet aggression," adding:

"The Republicans cannot hope, by laying down a McCarthy smokescreen, to conceal forever the scuttling of world-wide resistance to the Soviet conspiracy. If these Republican policies continue, then strength and freedom become double losers."

Donnelly Re-appoints One MU Curator, Adds Two New Members

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly reappointed one member and appointed two new ones today to the University of Missouri board of curators.

Re-appointed was James A. Finch, Jr., of Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Byron T. Shutz, wife of a Kansas City realtor, and Fred V. Heinkel of Columbia, president of the Missouri Farmers' Association, are the new appointees.

The appointments to six year terms on the board that governs the university all are subject to confirmation by the Missouri Senate.

Donnelly said, in appointing Mrs. Shutz, he thought the mothers of the state had a right to help control the university's operations.

Mrs. Shutz is a 1933 graduate of the university. She has been a Kansas City leader on civic programs for educational progress.

She was one of those that helped start the R. J. DeLano school for handicapped children.

Currently, she is president of the Kansas City Junior League, a member of the board of Mercy Hospital, secretary-treasurer of the Kansas City Committee of Colonial Dames of America in Missouri.

Heinkel, 56, has been president of the M. F. A. since 1941. Donnelly said he is recognized as one of the nation's foremost agricultural leaders. Heinkel is a director and past vice-president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and a member of the Missouri Basin Survey Commission.

Donnelly said Heinkel and the MFA were "greatly instrumental in the establishment of the department of forestry and the school of veterinary medicine, as well as the new four-year school of medicine, at the university."

Short Launches New Campaign For Air Academy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Short (R-Mo) has launched a new campaign aimed at setting up an Air Force Academy like the Army's West Point and the Navy's Annapolis.

Sedalia and Warrensburg have been actively interested in an endeavor to get the Air Academy established at the Knob Noster State Park in conjunction with the Sedalia Air Force Base. Congressman Short, along with Congressman Morgan Molder, of this district, have actively been supporters of the local location. U.S. Senators Thomas C. Hennings Jr., and Stuart W. Symington, are also supporting Sedalia for the location in the Senate.

Short, who is head of the House Armed Services committee, introduced a bill yesterday to put up 10 million dollars for a new commission to make another study to determine where an Air Force Academy should be located.

In effect, however, his bill apparently would put the academy project right back where it started five years ago when it was placed before Congress soon after the Air Force became a separate unit in 1948. Much of the past five years has been spent in haggling over a site for the air force academy.

This time, though, the bill has the backing of President Eisenhower. Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott announced:

"With the enthusiastic approval of President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, Congress is being asked to authorize an air academy."

Bealert Hotel Remains Intact; Old Home Razed

In Wednesday's Democrat, it was reported that the Bealert Hotel in Hughesville is being razed. This is not the case, since the Bealert Hotel is still intact and doing business.

The building being razed is owned by R. O. Bailey, of Houstonia, who bought it from Roll Bealert, owner of the Bealert Hotel. The building owned by Bailey is now almost completely destroyed.

At one time, back in the 1800's it was known as the Crumes Hotel. Its proprietor R. P. Crumes was also superintendent of the Sunday school at the Christian Church and active in civic affairs.

He sold the place to Theodore Shelton in the middle 1890's it is reported, and the building was then turned into a private home and has not been used as a hotel since.

Shelton rented the home to his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Irvine, and the building came to be known as the "Irvine place." Shelton sold it in time to Roll Bealert, and now Bailey has bought it. It is one of the oldest buildings in Hughesville and was much in disrepair by the time its destruction was begun. It is located a block away from the Bealert Hotel.

Output Dips, Auto Workers Remain Idle

DETROIT (AP)—Production schedules slumped today as labor disputes idled some 121,000 auto workers across the nation—77,400 of them in this area.

In the Detroit area, 29,600 workers were idle at Ford plants; 39,000 Chrysler Corp. workers remained off their jobs; and 1,000 were idle at the Budd Company's body stamping plants.

The three-day-old Budd strike, called by both sides a wildcat walkout forced Chrysler to send home its workers for lack of parts.

Ford sources said 85,000 workers at its plants across the country could be idle by the weekend.

In addition to the 77,400 workers idle in Detroit, 8,500 employes of the Willys Motor Company remained off the job at Toledo, O., 4,500 Nash Kelvinator Corp. Employes were idle at plants in Kenosha, Wisc.; as were 2,500 at a General Motors plants at Danville, Ill.

Studebaker planned to lay off 5,000 employes Monday, halting commercial truck production. Studebaker also planned to halve passenger car production at South Bend, Ind., and at Los Angeles, Calif., idling another 18,000 workers.

The Studebaker Company was hit by a parts shortage incurred by the stoppage of parts production at the Borg-Warner gear plant at Muncie, Ind. where 4,800 Borg-Warner employes were off the job. The Muncie strike also caused Studebaker to issue a closing order effective next Thursday for its plant at Hamilton, Ont.

Kaiser-Frazer, with 800 employes already idle, said it would have to halt its automotive production, June 1. The move would idle 2,500 more workers.

The Muncie strike began April 20 when the CIO United Auto Workers Union charged Borg-Warner with a speed-up reducing possible earnings under an incentive plan. Company officials denied the charge and said that jobs had been "re-timed."

Strike Cuts Off TV Station in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A strike put stations WDAF and WDAF-TV off the air Friday.

The strike was called by the American Federation of Television and Radio Arists (AFL). Both stations are owned by the Kansas City Star Company.

Contract negotiations have been carried on for more than three months. The principal stumbling block has been the issue of fee payments in addition to the base salaries.

Floods Pound Highway

Police Protect It After Report Road Might Be Dynamited To Ease Backwater

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—State police reinforced patrols along U. S. highway 90 linking this flood stricken city with flood-treatened Orange, Texas, today after reports the road might be dynamited.

The highway is acting in the nature of a dyke against south moving water on the east bank of the Sabine River in Texas.

State Police Capt. Jerome Haas said dynamiting of the highway would release the backed flood waters behind it, but that it would ruin the highway as well as being a dangerous operation for persons unskilled in its execution.

Haas said extra police patrols also were guarding the state highway for about 26 miles between DeQuincy, La., and Deweyville, Texas. DeQuincy is about 20 miles north of Lake Charles.

Haas said he did not know what value to give the dynamite reports, but that he was taking no chances after troopers picked up rumors of impending dynamitings both last night and again early today.

Two thousand families in the Lake Charles area were forced out of their homes by the highest flood along the raging Calcasieu River since 1913. More than two million dollars in property damage has been done by the flood in this Southwest Louisiana port city of 50,000.

Flood threatened B29 bombers at the Lake Charles Air Base, two miles east of the city, were being flown out of their Air Base camp today, while two transports were being kept on a ready basis if needed to evacuate 61 airmen families in trailers sitting in water on the base.

Convertible Overturns, Kills Sikeston Girl, Injures Two Others

SIKESTON (AP) — Anna Lee Morris, 18, a member of the Sikeston high school graduating class, was killed in an automobile accident about midnight last night shortly after commencement exercises at the school.

A convertible car in which she and four other girls from the senior class were taking a ride went out of control and overturned three miles east of Chaffee.

Laquitta Branum, 17, was seriously injured and was brought here to a hospital. Valene Taylor, 18, suffered a shoulder fracture and multiple cuts and bruises but her condition was not regarded as serious.

The two other girls and Randall Hill, 19, of Blodgett, Mo., driver of the car, escaped with minor injuries.

Hill, who graduated from high school at Blodgett last week, had offered to take the girls for a ride after the commencement program.

Crossroads Comment

By G. H. S.

Currently the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce is conducting a campaign for $100,000 to erect and own a building which will house a new industry here. Solicitors are out trying to raise that amount from fellow business men because the need is urgent; the manufacturer considering location in Sedalia must have his quarters this summer.

The Chamber bases its program on an investment plan rather than a donation, with an interest return to the individual subscriber. It is not a stock deal. The building will remain a permanent asset to the community, available for occupancy by a manufacturer and employer of men and women. Such buildings are needed, in a growing town.

But how in the world can a town the size of Sedalia raise such a large sum as $100,000, some may ask!

Well, how can a town like Boonville, 7,009 population, raise $175,000 to bring a new industry into its community? Boonville did it.

While discussing this civic activity with Boonville business men at a dinner meeting in their town recently, these men spoke of the accomplishment rather casually, albeit pridefully. Although they assumed a tremendous financial burden they felt it was a performance of a civic duty expected of them in consideration of the future development of their town.

Another neighbor town—Windsor, population 2,500, had raised $50,000 for a cash donation toward industrial development. Clinton is another aggressive seeker of new industries.

Acquisition of diversified manufacturing plants should be encouraged in Sedalia. Such factories become stabilizing factors in the employment field of any community. Sedalia is fortunate in having many of these now, but we need more as changing conditions create unemployment hazards.

The Chamber in its desire to expand the employment capacity of our town should receive more than passive support. The present plan to build a new factory provides an outlet for action and investment without delay.

St. Paul's Church To Receive Fund For Church GIs

Members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Broadway and Massachusetts, will receive an offering next Sunday for the Church's Armed Services Commission.

The Commission, which has its executive offices in Washington, D. C., ministers to the spiritual welfare of The Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod's 35,000 young men and women in the military.

Its program has been hailed by church and military leaders as the "most comprehensive and effective" service carried on by any church today among the military. A lead article in a widely-circulated national news magazine recently lauded the Commission for its "outstanding job" to service people.

The Commission's ministry begins with each individual member when he first enters the service. He is sent an initial packet containing a Lutheran Identification tag, Service Prayer Book, Scripture pocket calendar and several tracts.

The serviceman's name and military address, sent to the Commission by his home pastor, is forwarded to the nearest chaplain or contact pastor of the Church. There are 126 chaplains and 400 contact pastors cooperating in this effort. In addition, the Commission, with the assistance of 142 hospital pastors, serves Lutherans confined to Veterans Administration hospitals.

Each month an order of service with sermon and hymns, along with a directory for service people, are mailed to the service people.

Forty-five Lutheran Service Centers are being supported by the Commission for the purpose of spiritual counseling and informal hospitality to service people during their off-duty hours.

This comprehensive service program is financed solely through special collections in the Synod's churches.

Loughran Continuing Sermon Series Sunday

"Paul the Missionary" will be the fourth in a series of sermons on the general theme of "How Christianity Expanded" as presented Sunday morning by the Rev. Joseph S. Laughran, pastor of the Federated Church.

Loughran says, "Never had there been a convert to Christianity who so burned with zeal to spread the faith of Jesus as Paul of Tarsus. Intense by nature, courageous, decisive and dominating, Paul was aflame with desire to tell the world of the Gospel of Christ.

After his conversion he returned to Jerusalem, a very bold act for a renegade Jew to re-appear among those who once held him in such esteem. The whole history of Christianity has been stamped with the influence of Paul. Christians throughout all ages have been uplifted by the strength of his consecrated character."

Sunday School Lesson Notes

Common Sense and Christian Conduct
BY WILLIAM E. GILROY D,. D.

The Christian way of life and conduct, if one accepts and proposes to follow it, ought to be simply and easily defined. Is it not to love God with all the heart, strength and soul and mind, and to love one's neighbor as oneself?

Moreover, if one asks what it means to love one's neighbor as oneself, we have a commanding exposition by Jesus Himself in the great Parable of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10).

Yet it is obvious in the pages of the New Testament and in the religious life of all times, including our own, that religious people have been deeply concerned about the problems of daily conduct. They have differed widely about questions of right and wrong and have often been harsh in their demands and judgments upon those whose ideas have not coincided with their own.

The differences, too, have characterized whole sects and groups of people and have even characterized historic periods. We speak of the Puritan Revival and the Age of the Restoration. We might even speak of the Era of Prohibition and the present Era of anti-Prohibition, with a real sense in each reference of the different moral ideas involved, each with its corresponding differences in conduct.

Are there reasonable standards of moral judgment that would mark the proper conduct of a Christian while avoiding great extremes of undue Puritanism and undue license?

I think that there are such standards and that guidance can be found in studying the words and the example of Jesus in relation to matters of conduct. In general, I think we are too inclined to relate the teachings of Jesus to the supreme matter of faith and love without paying sufficient attention to specific instances.

A striking instance concerned the Sabbath. It was made for man, Jesus said, and not man for the Sabbath. Punctilious observers thought it was wrong to heal on the Sabbath day. They would have had the disciples go through the grain field hungry rather than "sin" by rubbing a few heads of grain in their hands.

What Jesus opposed was the hypocrisy that made much of eating with unwashed hands (Matthew 15:2), while at the same time committing the foul sins of injustice and inhumanity (Matthew 23:13-35). Many, of course, have laid stress upon washed hands and similar secondary matters without in any way being lax regarding the more vital matters of righteousness.

I am inclined to deplore the tendency to make sins out of matters that are not inherently sinful. There are enough real sins and wrongs to fight without creating artificial sins out of matters that are neither against God nor against one's fellowmen. Goodness needs always the strong ally of common sense.

Beaman Woman Wins Contest For Ban Johnson Team Name

Earl Paxton, president of the Federated Shop Crafts, announced Thursday night that Mrs. Roy Jeffries, route 1, Beaman, is the winner of the federation's contest to secure a new name for the Sedalia Ban Johnson entry.

Mrs. Jeffries chose the name Craftsmen, "since it is a part of the sponsor's name." and since "the word 'craftsmen' means those skilled in a particular art or knack —baseball is both of these."

As the contest's winner, Mrs. Jeffries will receive two season memberships good for all activities of the Federated Shop Crafts Ban Johnson Association.

Three other entries were of such caliber that the judges felt some recognition should be given them. Therefore, one season membership will be awarded to—Timmy Morgan, 920 East 16th; Mrs. Robert Pierce, 1011 East Fourth; and J. W. Standard, 1611 South Lamine.

Prize winners may pick up their awards at the Liberty Park box-office Sunday night. Game time for the opening Ban Johnson contest is 8 p. m.

Speaking for the federation, Paxton said Cal Rodgers, sponsor of the team until this season, also will receive a membership, "for co-operation and generosity displayed in the change of sponsorship."

For the present, due to the nearness of the seasons opener and difficulty in obtaining uniforms in time for the first game, the team will continue to be called the Chiefs.

When new uniforms are procured, of course, the name Craftsmen will go into effect.

In closing, Paxton thanked all those who submitted entries for their interest in the Sedalia Ban Johnson team.

He also stated that it was the sincere wish of the new sponsor to bring the team as close to the fans as possible. In compliance with this desire, anyone with a question of any kind concerning the Ban Johnson team is urged to contact Paxton or Jack Mock, president of the Shop Crafts baseball committee.

Judges for the contest were Walter Jessee, vice-president of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, Mock and Paxton.

As the pianist, Homer Homan, played the music, the candlelighters, Lawrence and Millard Wagenknecht, entered and lighted the candles.

The ushers, George Demand and Howard Scott, introduced the following guests: Don Allcorn, aunt of the bride; Roy Lujen, uncle of the bride; Floyd Schleusing, a guest; Robert Curtis, a know-all neighbor; Warnie Lewis, jilted sweetheart of the groom; Ralph Lewis, colored nursemaid; George Griffin III, baby sister of the bride; Harry Pace, grandmother; John Daniels, grandfather; Leonard Hoehns, Milo Homan and L. The bride, Fredrick Lovercamp, given away by "her" father, E. L. Birdsong, wore a white floor-length dress with over the face veil and aisle wide trim of cheese cloth. She carried a bouquet of pepper grass and paper flowers.

The groom, the Rev. M. E. Williamson, was attended by Archie Peoples, who wore a black suit, which was too large.

The minister, Paul S. McKee, was attired in blue trousers and a long black coat. His boutonnaire was an orange paper flower and he read the ceremony from a large catalogue.

Following the ceremony the wedding party marched down the center aisle to give the audience another look and laugh.

Preceding the wedding a variety program was given. The proceeds amounted to $115.20.

Says Britain Must Explain China Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today "Britain owes the free world a reply" to testimony that British - owned ships have transported Chinese Communist troops during the Korean War.

"I am not inclined to wait too long for them to volunteer it," Mundt added in an interview, "and the answer had better not be 'Yes, so what?'"

Mundt is a member of the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). A staff investigator told the group Wednesday that British - owned ships of the Wheelock Marden Co. of Hong Kong carried Chinese Communist troops on two occasions during the Korean War. The investigator, Robert Kennedy, said there may have been other instances.

At Hong Kong F. H. Horman-Fisher, the firm's manager, denied yesterday that Wheelock - Marden vessels carried troops for the Reds. He said three of the firm's vessels have been seized by the Communists and it no longer owns a fourth mentioned as engaged in the Communist trade.

Mundt, acting chairman of the subcommittee in McCarthy's absence, said he will propose that the State Department demand comment by Prime Minister Churchill or the British Foreign Office if there is no official statement within "the respectably near future" on the troop carrying question.

G. E. Marden, chairman of Wheelock-Marden, said in London the charge his company's ships carried Red troops "is a horrible lie—it just did not happen."

A British Foreign Office spokesman said at a news conference the charge that British ships carried such troops is being investigated, but "sometimes it's rather difficult for us to comment on a report that unidentified ships of unknown tonnage carried unspecified numbers of so-called troops at a date not known between unstated ports."

The Consul General of Panama in Hong Kong, Marion E. Guillen, said there that at least 18 ships formerly under Panamanian registry, many of them originally British owned, had fallen into Chinese Communist hands.

C-46 Crashes On Iowa Farm, Killing Two

DES MOINES (AP)—A C-46 passenger plane crashed and burned on a farm about 16 miles east of here in a violent electrical and windstorm early today, killing at least two persons.

The plane plummeted to earth in a cornfield on the David Boot farm, about 4:15 a. m. The weather bureau reported that about the time of the crash the storm had reached its height in the Des Moines area, with gusts of wind measured at 75 miles per hour.

Don Stevenson, 23, a farmer living about a quarter of a mile from the crash scene, said he saw a "bright flash" in the sky just before the plane nosed into the earth.

The two dead were identified by R. A. Miller, treasurer of Resort Airlines, Miami, Fla., owner of the plane, as Capt. Bowen Marshall, 33, and co-pilot Manuel Aronson, 29, both of San Antonio, Tex.

Iowa State Highway patrolmen said they saw what may have been a third body in the wreckage, but added that it will have to cool before it can be ascertained whether there were more than two killed.

Tweny-one airmen had left the C-46 at Cheyenne about midnight, CAA officials at the Cheyenne field said the plane took off empty about 12:30 a. m. today, headed for Chicago.

Seats May Stand Empty on Route Of Coronation

LONDON (AP)—With only 11 days to go before coronation day, the signs are there'll be an estimated 2,000 or 3,000 empty seats along the procession route Queen Elizabeth II will take from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace.

And the gaps in the crowds will be where they hurt most—in the stands and balconies set aside for American and other overseas visitors bringing foreign currency to Britain.

Britons have been jostling in the ticket agency queues for months, but unless there's a last minute rush from abroad — unlikely because of transportation difficulties —the June 2 coronation will not be the sell-out the authorities hoped for months ago.

Some of the unsold seats are in good positions and reasonable in price. These are the ones held by the reputable ticket agencies, who charge a top price of around $84—and throw in a packed lunch as well.

Nearly 500 of these are still unsold in one stand alone—the huge structure built by the government in Whitehall and reserved for overseas visitors. The British Hotel and Travel Association, which has been disposing of these seats for the government, says the total of seats unsold here is about 10 per cent.

"We were afraid something like this might happen," an association official said. "People thought it would be impossible to get seats, so many just didn't apply. Then we had the usual cancellations—people had made double bookings, or died, or couldn't come over for other reasons. We are putting the seats on the home market now, but I don't suppose many people can afford the $84 for them."

MoPac Official Tells Kiwanis Of Tomorrow and Railroads

"What of Tomorrow For The Railroads," was the subject of an address by William H. A. Turner, assistant traffic manager, Missouri Pacific, Kansas City, before the Sedalia Kiwanis Club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thurhday noon.

The speaker was introduced by Kiwanian James F. Downs, district freight and passenger agent, Sedalia.

Richard Coe was program chairman and Vice-President L. A. Pharris presided in the absence of President William Ward.

I. H. Reed had as guests: H. F. Rodick, president, and his son, V. F. Rodick, vice-president and general manager, National Engineering and Manufacturing Company, planning to move to Sedalia; Claude Boul, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Abe Silverman, industrial development committee.

Mr. Turner in his address said in part:

"Now, something about aur railroads. We can only look into the future in the light of our knowledge of today and that, of course, is based on our experience of the past. On this premise, permit me to relate, first the progress which has been made by the American Railroads and, next, some of the problems which confront us, and then, the research and planning that is being done so that the railroads may continue to carry the nation's biggest transportation load in the safest, cheapest and most dependable manner, in order to keep abreast of our expanding economy.

"Just a few years ago there were a good many people who seemed to have the idea that in the future of America, there was no place for railroads. Newer forms of transportation were absorbing popular interest and calling for the investment of government funds in tremendous quantities. In the twenty years between the two world wars, public money invested in waterways, highways and airways, greatly exceeded the total investment in railways during the preceding century. Then came the test of the second world war, and the realization that despite all that had been done in the development of other forms of transportation and all their fine services, there was nothing which could do for this country what it's railroads could do.

"As the transportation load increased more and more of it was carried by the railroads, including as least nine-tenths of all military and war freight and 98 per cent of all organized military travel. The nation re-discovered the vital importance of its's railroads. The situation today regarding the transportation load brought on by the Korean War and related factors, has changed little — and a large part of the traffic carried by the railroads now, is chargeable to the military and war industries through government expenditures for defense of this country and our allies.

"Your attention may well be directed to one important factor concerning the operation of the American railroads in the present emergency and during the secod world war which is in direct contast to the conditions that obtained during the first world war. In the first world war operation of the railroads by the government resulted in the loss in taxes of approxmately one billion five hundred million dollars which had to be made up by the taxpayers. Government operated plants are not taxpayers. This was not true during the second war, nor is it true today because the railroads have been and are being operated as private enterprises and such operation costs the taxpayers nothing. Instead, the railroads paid into the Treasury of the United States during the second world war more than four billion dollars in taxes.

"In spite of the high quality of rail transportation services in the United States, as compared with the rest of the world, the railroad industry is gradually being weakened by restrictive legislation, by vastly increased operating costs, and by the subsidized competition of other modes of commercial transport."

"No other industry has been subjected to so much state and federal legislative action as have the railroads.

"No other industry feels so much the heavy hand of government in the matter of wages as do the railroads.

"No other industry, national in scope, has the price of its services so closely regulated, as do the railroads.

"Some bureau or commission is constantly looking over the shoulder of the railroads. Just about everything they do is subject to public scrutiny and investigation. They have no business secrets.

"Subsidied commercial competition, which is a phase of socialized planning, continue to make steady inroads upon the freight and passenger traffic of the railroads.

"This is because these competing forms of commercial transport no not have to bear all their expenses of staying in business. The taxpayers provide them with the basic facilities of their businesses at an insignificant use-charge when compared with their total investment costs and current operating and maintenance expense.

"Subsidies to the commercial transport agencies take the form of air terminals, communications and weather reporting services, a magnificent network of highways and improved inland waterways.

"These extensive facilities have already cost the taxpayers billions of dollars, and the end is not in slight, for millions are currently being spent annually to improve and maintain them.

"Unlike railroads, commercial transport lines, including airlines and inland water carriers need furnish only the vehicle of their trade. The fixed plant part of their businesses, which is basic to their operation, is government planned, financed and owned.

"Since so many people are under the impression that all of the railroads were subsidized by the government in the early days of their construction and expansion it is well to point out some facts pertinent to this subject.

"First of all, only 17,600 miles, or 8 percent, of the 230,000 miles of railroad in the United States received federal assistance, and this assistance was in the ofrm of Land Grant Aids. 212,400 miles, or 52 percent, did not receive these federal aids.

"Secondly, the Federal Land Grant Aids were by no means subsidies; at least, not as we know the meaning and application of subsidies today.

"In practical terms, the acceptance of such aid constituted a contract, and a profitable one at that for the federal government. It required the railroads accepting the Land Grant Aids to handle all government troops and traffic at 50 percent of the published tariff rates for these services. In 1850 the federal government owned 1,500,000,000 acres of land, 130,000,000 of which were turned over to the railroads at an average price of about one dollar per acre, however, as a result of this contractural agreement, the federal government profited through the railroads handling military traffic at reduced charges through the medium of land grant rates, the sum of $1,250,000,000 or approximately ten times the value of the land received. It is quite obvious that there is no logical comparison between the Fereral Land Grant Aids received by the railroads and the subsidies received by the commercial airlines, and inland water carriers. The costly facilities placed at their disposal, at a charge which bears little relationship to the billions of dollars they cost the taxpayers, are essential to their business. As mentioned, all they need do is provide and maintain the vehicles of their trade.

"If a similar competitive situation confronted you, how long could you last? Suppose you opened a new store in the heart of your city. First you bought expensive ground, secondly you built your own building, and then of course, you had to stock it with a complete inventory. You paid all costs of operation, payroll and otherwise, which, of course, would include all taxes. Your objective was to try to make a profit. Now let's say after you had become well established following many years of hard work and were enjoying a thriving business, a certain John Doe came along who had a rich uncle. John Doe opens up a store right across the street from you. Uncle provided the ground and the building, met part of the payroll, most of the taxes, leaving only the merchandise for John to buy. Additionally, consider that you were operating under certain restrictions and laws, that your new competitor, John Doe, was not required to comply with, that your new competitor, John Doe, was not required to comply with, nor operate under the same restrictions that governed you,—you will agree that it would be quite difficult to compete with Mr. Doe.

"Compare this with the railroads. They not only own, but maintain and pay taxes upon every foot of their roadways. They operate and maintain all of their facilities and services.

"The railroads are not opposed to competing modes of transport. In a fluid and expanding economy such as ours, all of them perform services essential to the welfare and safety of our nation, with the possible exception of the operation and substdization of the inland watarways by the federal government.

"But what the railroads do oppose, and feel justified in criticizing, is the inequality of treatment through the government's policy of underwriting, through taxes, a proportion of the normal and legitimate costs of commercial transport agencies engaged in business for a profit.

"Aside from the ill-effect of legislation and subdization upon the final well-being of the railroads, the declining rate of return upon capital investment tends to nudge the railroads along the path towards nationalization.

"For the past 25 years, including the boom decade of 1920's and the tremendous traffic years of the last war, the average return on railroad capital investment has been only 3 2/3 percent, in 1947, when the railroads handled the heaviest traffic in all peacetime history, they earned only 3.46 percent of their investment.

The simple truth is that the present plight of the railroads has been caused by restricted legislation, by vastly increased operating costs, and by subsidized competition . . . all of which casts them in the role of a poor relation.

"In connection with these observations, it should be made clear that the railroads seek no special or preferred treatment. All they ask that the principles of free, comzpetitive enterphrise apply to all alike, including roving transports, airlines and inland water carriers.

"Let the service each renders the nation be the measure by which it justifies its existance. Real progress comes not through the oppression of any one industry to promote another, but through equal apportunity for all.

"That is all the railroads seew. They are perfectly willing to stand or fall on the basic principle of our free enterprise system."

Big 3 Leaders Face Crucial Unity Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big Three leaders meeting next month will face a critical test of their ability to forge new Allied unity for firm dealing with Russia—in or out of a conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

Unless they can close ranks, some observers here doubt that they would dare undertake subsequent Big Four negotiations and give Russia an opportunity to try to exploit their differences.

Presumably they will also have to decide on what terms they might be able to do business with Malenkov—what they could offer and what they could request in the event of a Big Four conference.

That the Western Alliance is beset by difficulties and differences became apparent all over again yesterday.

Hardly had the announcement been made that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Mayer would meet about mid-June, probably in Bermuda, when Mayer's government collapsed.

His was the 18th French Cabinet since World War II liberation.

Some time, diplomatically speaking, will now be lost while France puts together a new Cabinet—time which might have been used in working up an agenda for the conference and carrying on preliminary diplomacy.

In the very announcements about the conference, differing views became clearly apparent. Mayer said the three would discuss the feasibility of a session with Malenkov, and Churchill said he hoped the meeting would pave the way to such a session.

But in Washington the White House steadfastly declined to link the meeting of the three with a possible Big Four get-together. At the State Department all emphasis was placed on the chance that the Western chiefs of government will have to develop great unity among the Western Powers.

President Eisenhower took the initiative in suggesting the Big Three talk. The White House announcement said it would be an "informal high-level meeting." Indications were that the President had developed the idea into a decision Wednesday with unusual speed.

The preliminary considerations have not been disclosed. But it is known responsible officials have been increasingly concerned that the Western Powers were pulling apart and that such a situation could benefit only Russia.

Recent differences, all of which seem likely to come up in some manner, include the transatlantic word battle between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Labor Party Leader Clement Attlee, French and British support for a meeting with Russia under conditions not favored here, British advocacy of eventual Red Chinese membership in the United Nations, and some apparent controversy over U. S. conduct of the Korean truce negotiations.

Deeper difficulties apparently lie in the field of inter-allied confidence. Diplomats report friendly foreign governments are not sure of the strength and direction of the Eisenhower administration's leadership. They had hoped, for example, for a stronger stand on lowering American tariffs and upping European imports to achieve Western Europe's goal of "Trade, not aid."

The British also are reported to have been worried about whether the U. S. was developing a new, tougher policy in the Far East which might lead to greater American involvement in war there.

France and the U. S. were unable to agree in past weeks on how, diplomatically, to deal with the Communist invasion of Laos.

On the other side, American officials, and particularly Secretary of State Dulles, have sharply prodded Western European nations to get ahead faster with European defense measures.

Allied differences are by no means a new feature of cold war diplomacy. But in the past the Kremlin or some Communist satellite usually had under way a threatening project which caused the Western Powers to submerge their inter-family disputes in the interest of a common resistance.

With the death of Premier Stalin and the launching of the Kremlin's spring offensive keynoted on peace, this outside threat seemed to recede somewhat and the urgency of maintaining a common front appeared, especially in Europe, to recede with it.

Ridgway Says Soviet Has Not Lessened Free World's Peril

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, says Russia's "peace" offensive hasn't lessened the peril of the free world.

"We stand in just as great peril as ever we stood before," Ridgway said last night in his first public address since he took over command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last year.

Ridgway, designated to become Army Chief of Staff, urged new, positive actions by the Western Allies to counter what he described as Russia's unchanged long-range objectives and implacable hostility.

He told a meeting of the American Council on NATO that Western strength has increased, but so has that of "our potential adversary."

"The discrepancy remains greater than could be overcome within the immediate future," he said, "unless we continue to make great efforts."

He said the West's major deficiencies are in manpower, supporting units and establishments, ammunition and "above all in planes."

Dream No More---Build That Outdoor Fireplace

By Mr. Fix
Distributed by NEA Service

Are you an outdoor-fireplace dreamer? If so, you have a lot of company, because you belong to a not-so-exclusive club of home owners who have planned for years to build back-yard barbecue fireplaces and have always fallen back on makeshifts.

You say this is your year? You are going through with it? Don't be hasty now. Maybe there's some little hitch in it you haven't thought of. Maybe you'll need another year or so to think it over.

If not, if you've thought it out carefully, then you have planned the location of the fireplace. Doubtless you agree with your experienced brethren who feel that the barbecue outfit should be placed close to the house, preferably near the kitchen so supplies will be close at hand.

Then, too, you have most likely taken note of the prevailing winds in your locality and of where the sun's afternoon rays fall. You dislike being blinded by late afternoon sun and would avoid poor smoke dispersal or the incorrect drafts.

By this time you have decided upon the type of material you will use in building the fireplace. It could be of cut stone, which looks nice with a frame home, or of brick to match a brick home. There are any number of suitable materials.

You have no doubt made up your mind on the size of barbecue you'll need for your family—to fit its living pattern. Perhaps a smudge pot equipped with a grill, or an area framed with concrete block or stone topped with a grill, would be sufficient. But after cooking and eating out-of-doors becomes a summer habit, these smaller units often prove inadequate.

In planning the location of an outdoor fireplace, take note of prevailing winds and avoid placing it in a sunlit area.

Of prime importance, no matter what type or size of fireplace you intend to build, is its support and sub-bed. This is true in areas of freezing temperatures in winter, when the ground may heave and destroy good work that hasn't been supported.

You might use either a perimeter foundation carried below the frostline, or a concrete slab. The slab should be somewhat wider than the fireplace and six or more inches thick. It will ride up and down when freezing and thawing raises and lowers the earth.

A sub-bed of cinders or rubble five or more inches thick should be thoroughly tamped down and given time to settle before the slab is poured.

To prevent moisture damage to the fireplace, it is wise to elevate the hearth a few inches above ground level. This would necessitate pouring the slab into a wooden form, of course. Unless this precaution is taken, frost action on moist masonry may cause cracking. To further offset this possibility, be sure all joints in the masonry are absolutely tight.

You will gather from this that it is best not to place the fireplace in a low spot where water might drain down on it.

Face your barbecue in the direction of the prevailing winds and shield it as much as possible from counter currents to avoid a smoke nuisance and provide a proper draft.

Dampers are useless in outdoor fireplaces. Since the chimneys are short, the flue must be ample.

And that's about it. Now it's up to you. Or are you still dreaming?

GETS MEASLY DEAL—Shed a tear for Morton Shubert, 23, of Beachwood, Ohio, who came down with three-day measles the day before his wedding. He got married all right, but didn't get to kiss his bride, the former Jo-Ann Friedman, of Shaker Heights, Ohio. Shubert, his bride, their parents and his brother, Norman, gathered in the Shubert home for the marriage ceremony. "It took just five minutes," Shubert said. "I got up out of bed, put on my tuxedo. I went downstairs and got married. Then she and the others went off to the reception and I hear they had a fine time. I went back upstairs, took off my tuxedo and went back to bed." Best he can do now is look at his bride's picture and talk to her on the telephone.

French Plaster Main Vietminh Supply Routes

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—French fighter and bomber planes plastered main supply routes from Red China to the Communist-led Vietminh today and pounded Rebel troop concentrations in the Black River district of Northwestern Indochina.

The attackers, including U. S.-supplied B26 bombers, tore big gaps in highways leading to Langson, 80 miles northeast of Hanoi, and to Caobang, 120 miles north of this city. Langson and Caobang both are within 10 miles of the frontier with Communist China.

Lately the Chinese Reds have been feeding over these highways the greater part of the 3,000 tons of war material they supply each month to the Vietminh.

The French airmen also attacked part of the Vietminh troops which recently pulled out of Laos after plunging almost to the gates of the little mountain kingdoms royal residence seat of Luang Prabang. These troops now are concentrated around Hoabinh, on the Black River 40 miles southwest of Hanoi.

The French also reported that reconnaissance units from the French-held fortress of Nasan, 117 miles west of Hanoi, have entered nearby Sonla without encountering Vietminh resistance.

Binaggio's Widow Owes $32,767.47 In Taxes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tax liens amounting to $32,767.47 are owed the government by Mrs. Cecelia Binaggio, widow of the late Charles Binaggio, the government said yesterday.

Listed in the liens were income tax, penalty and interest of $30,248.70 for 1945 and the rest for 1946. Mrs. Binaggio is the transferee of Binaggio's estate. The political leader was slain here in April 1950.

Mexican Orphans Will Be Deported After Long Hike

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Two ragged Mexican orphans who hiked 900 miles in search of a missing uncle have come to the end of their trail here.

They are to be deported today.

Porfirio Perez-Villalobos, a hazel-eyed 13-year-old much too sober for his years, and his staunch little brother Ricardo, 10, will be turned over to Mexican authorities at the border city of Nogales, Sonora.

Immigration officers, although touched by the waifs' sad tale, say there is nothing they can do but remove them. There is no haven here.

The boys were picked up at the nearby farm community of Marana Wednesday looking for work.

Hungry, tired and lonely, and unable to find Jose Mario Zaragosa, the uncle they had been seeking, they approached Deputy Sheriff Ed Hendricks and asked for a job.

"Any kind of a job," Porfirio pleaded.

Officers fed them and with the help of interpreters pieced together the fragments of their long trek.

They had been living at Arandes, Mexico, near Guadalajara, and decided to find Zaragos, their only living reltive. He had been last heard from while working near Marana.

They walked, caught rides and made 20 to 80 cents a day shining shoes. The money kept them from starving. Finally, after reaching the border, they walked on the far side of a tourist's car past the custom's gate at Nogales, and continued on into Arizona.

Asked how long ago they began their trip, they shrugged their shoulders and replied:

"Many days."

Ricardo told officers he was not afraid to go back and that his brother would take care of him.

Porfirio said he didn't know what he would do, but would decide later after finding out how far he was sent into Mexico. Then he added sadly:

"Work is good in this country. I wish we could stay, but I guess we can't."

Everything Comes Frozen These Days

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Neighbors got a start when they saw Dixie Smith carefully digging holes and dropping an ice cube in each one.

They facetiously asked her if she was growing 25-pound cakes of ice, icicle radishes, or maybe refrigeration plants.

She cooled them off by explaining, there was a flowering cherry tree seed in each cube. Dixie said she was supposed to have planted the seeds last fall but forgot. A friend advised her to freeze the seeds and plant them.

Missouri opens its season in all waters for all fish in just a little over a week (May 30), and the eyes of the state's anglers turn more and more to the condition of her streams hoping for clear water and bass in a striking mood.

In Pettis County, we find most of the creeks just on the fringe, with the streams showing signs of being ready for the big day—if the rains slack-off.

As of Thursday, most were falling and clearing and they should be in good condition after being high last week.

So far this week catfish have been most receptive, with black perch biting slowly due to the cloudy water.

On the Lake of the Ozarks, the water level was climbing slightly on Thursday after hitting a low point on Sunday.

And is the case the majority of time, fishing improves on the Lake as the water rises.

You will find clear or clearing water over most of the Lake with good conditions in the lower end of the impoundment and in all feeder streams. The best bass and jack salmon results are found in the Gravois, Niangua and Grand Glaize arms and in the big lake near the dam.

In the other regions, crappie fishing generally is good with a trolled minnow and spinner combination, worked along the shoreline, paying-off. Those dropping small minnows near "beds" are also getting their share of fish.

Things are reaching the point now where the skilled angler is beginning to come to the fore as all species of fish seem to be more temperamental.

Typical of the information which came into this office during the week is the report from Rodney Tevis of Lakeside Resort on the Cole Camp Creek arm.

He said on Wednesday that the water near his resort was in excellent condition for all types of fish — clear and rising slightly.

The most cooperative specie was the crappie, which were hitting a minnow-spinner rig trolled very slowly.

To the south, down where the big bass grow, live bait and top-water plugs were the main "fish-getters" on Norfolk Lake where 21 bass of more than four pounds, including four small mouths were taken. The top catch was a 9-pound-12 lunker which accepted a large minnow.

Crappie and white bass are beginning to appear on more stringers in that area, many biting at night beneath a lantern.

Arkansas opened its stream fishing last Saturday, which means its famed trout waters below Norfork Dam are receiving plenty of attention. No report has been received as yet, but one should be available by next week.

Heavy rains on the upper White River dirtied the water in Bull Shoals Reservoir early this week, but the condition was only temporary and the slam-bang angling quickly returned.

The week which closed the 16th saw 57 bass of more than four pounds leave the lake, with more than half of them small mouths. The heaviest fish was a 7-pound-2 large mouth which fell for a Lazy Ike. Two of the small mouths topped five pounds.

Jack salmon also are hitting on Bull Shoals with five weighing more than four pounds landed; two of them were 5¾ pounders.

The current formula on that lake is topwater lures early and late and underwater plugs and minnows during the day.

Ft. Wood Blanks Air Base Squad For Second Time

Ft. Leonard Wood exploded for nine runs in the sixth inning here Thursday night to turn an otherwise-close baseball contest with the Sedalia Air Force Base into a 13-0 walkaway.

This marks the second straight easy win for the powerful Hill-toppers over SAFB; they won a 21-0 victory Wednesday night at Liberty Park.

Swingle held the Airmen to two hits, fanned eight and didn't walk a man. He also received perfect support.

All but one Ft. Wood starter got at least one hit with Gray, Magi, Schmidt, Milinkov and Swingle collecting two. Magi, Herzog and Kasko got the longest blows, two-baggers.

Sedlor and Wilson were the only Airmen to hit safely.

Six Air Base errors aided the 14-hit Ft. Wood attack.

Leaders Battle Jets Here at 8 Tonight

Harry Meyers will be on the Center Park mound for the Schlitz Leaders tonight at 8 when the local club, in search of its fourth victory of the season, takes-on the Sedalia Air Force Base Jets.

The Leaders have lost one contest this season, to the Jefferson City Stags, who play the Schlitz crew here Sunday night.

Leader Manager Frank Lueck said Thursday night that he may move his dependable catcher, John Swisher, to the outfield tonight with Leech taking over behind the plate. This move will be made to increase the Leaders' power at the plate.

Manpower in Demand At Little League Park

The Little League is appealing for manpower to help in the construction of the stadium and raking down the baseball diamond. The stadium is gradually going forward with four piers completed, and two more to be made ready Saturday.

Manpower has been light up to the present time and a big push the next few days and nights will probably have the park ready for the opening on Monday, June 1.

Giants Find Meagre Leeway In National League Race.

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter

The New York Giants are ready to start a petition demanding more room in first division in the National League.

They think they belong there, just like the experts said before the season started. But it's a typical National League race with almost everybody trying to get in front. And it's so tight even a five game winning streak and nine successes in their last 12 starts isn't enough to get the Giants higher than fifth.

The Philadelphia Phillies are in front at the moment, but the margin is so small that on any cold day they ought to be able to feel the hot breath from the hungry pack all the way down to the Giants.

The Phils, thumped 7-2 by Pittsburgh last night, lead Milwaukee by half a game. St. Louis is a half game back of Milwaukee with Brooklyn's off-and-on Dodgers another half step behind the Cards.

That brings it down to fifth place and the Giants, who knocked off Brooklyn 7-2, last night to creep within three games of the top.

Three games from first to fifth! Why over in the American League where the New York Yankees are threatening to run off and hide from the rest of the clubs, the margin is more than that from first to second.

The Yankees stretched their lead to 3½ games over the idle Chicago White Sox last night by edging the Washington Senators, 6-5, on a three-run seventh inning rally. The Philadelphia Athletics, hitless for five innings, overpowered Boston, 9-0, in the only other American League game. The Cardinals made up deficits of three and six runs to defeat Cincinnati, 11-9, to round out the National League action.

The Giants slammed out five runs in the first inning against Brooklyn's Joe Black and Ben Wade on a pair of back-to-back triples, a single, double and Bobby Thomson's home run.

The season's largest National League crowd, 46,778 Polo Grounds customers, saw Brooklyn dispose of Giant Ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed Pee Wee Reese's single with a home run and Jackie Robinson followed with a double. But Al Corwin, making his third relief appearance in four games, stopped the Dodgers until the fifth and Dave Koslo held the lead to the end. The victory went to Corwin.

The roof fell in on Karl Drews in Pittsburgh in the sixth inning. The Philadelphia righthander was breezing along with a 2-0 lead when the Pirates suddenly found the range for seven singles and were aided by two walks and a pair of errors.

Cincinnati jumped away to 6-0 lead, but the Cardinals tied it up in the sixth only to find themselves trailing 9-6 after Cincinnati batted in the seventh. The Cards came back with four more in the seventh and frosted the cake with a single tally in the eighth.

The Yankees' victory, too, was a come from behind effort against the battling Senators. Down 5-3 after four innings, the Yankees rallied for three runs in the seventh on a pair of singles, two doubles and a walk.

The Athletics' triumph over Boston may have been a costly one since they lost the services of lefty Bobby Shantz for an indefinite period. Shantz, pitching shutout ball, strained a muscle in his arm with two out in the fourth and had to retire.

IBC Will Soon Announce Marciano-La Starza Fight

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Desperately eager to take the so-called minds of boxing fans off something that happened a week ago tonight at Chicago, the International Boxing Club will shortly announce plans for a heavyweight title fight here in September between Rocky Marciano and Roland La Starza.

This will come as bad news to the several managers of Ezzard Charles, a former champion, but the IBC really has little choice. It wishes to hold the next big one in a local ball park for a number of reasons, and the men who run the cauliflower cartel regard Charles as a very poor draw in these parts. They have reasonable hope that La Starza, a Bronx boy, can be ballyhooed into a business getter in his own right.

We believe Al Weill, Marciano's manager, when he declares he has no choice between the two foremost challengers. He firmly believes that Rocky is good enough now to whip both of both of them on the same night. If anybody tells you the champion is ducking Charles, he simply doesn't know Rocky.

Actually, if the Marciano forces are to be suspected of fearing either man the more logical choice would be La Starza. Back three years ago he gave Rocky the closest brush of his unbeaten career—a 1-1-1 vote by the three officials that went to Marciano on points only because he scored a knockdown in an early round. A majority of newsmen at ringside thought La Starza won it. Where La Starza is young (25) and at his physical peak, Charles has been putting on the years.

At any rate, what we started out to do was tell you something about La Starza. For a boy with his record—55 fights, 52 wins, 24 knockouts—the butcher's son has gained remarkably little fame and has made but little money up to now. A more violent name might have helped him, something a little more catchy than Roland.

Both La Starza and his worried-looking manager, Jimmy De Angelo, showed up at Chicago the first of last week and for five days spent most of their waking hours sitting around the hotel suite where the fight clan gathered.

La Starza is a bright, clean-cut young fellow. Only a slight widening of the nose suggests his trade. More than one newly-arriving fight expert, told that the boy playing solitaire over at the side was the challenger from New York, stared in unbelief. Roland didn't speak until he was spoken to, as a rule, and he made no speeches about wanting to fight Marciano. He left that to De Angelo, and even the latter's suggestion that his warrior should get the next shot was more plaintive than aggressive.

Big 7 Committee Says All Members Share TV Football Receipts

AMES, Ia., (AP)—The Big Seven Conference faculty committee last night decided all member institutions would share in receipts from nationally televised fooball games involving conference teams next fall.

The committee, rules-making body of the Big Seven, opened its annual three-day spring meeting apparently without discussing the conference's ban on post-season competition. The issue however, is expected to come up for review today or Saturday.

Mize Needs Five More Hits for 2,000 Mark

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Johnny Mize of the New York Yanks needs only five more hits to crack the 2,000-hit club. When Mize connected for a pinch single in his team's 6-5 triumph over the Senators last night it was his 1,995th major league hit in regular season play.

Bolt Has Long Lead at Start Of Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP)—Tommy Bolt, a heavy money-winner already, held a long lead on a $5,000 jackpot today as he set out at the head of the field in the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

The terrible tempered Mr. Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., was the only player able to master par in the opening round yesterday as he shot a 34-33—67 over the rugged 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course.

His three-under-par effort put him four strokes ahead of his nearest pursuers—Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Lloyd Mangrum, of Niles, Ill. each had one-over-par 71.

It was a day of high wind and high scores but Bolt, winner of two tournaments this year along with $8,030 to make him fifth among the money-earners, figured it all out to a T. He used a slight hook and the wind gave him little trouble.

The largest opening day crowd in the seven-year history of the tournament — 6,500 — turned out mostly to see Ben Hogan, the mechanical man from Palm Springs, Calif., a smashing favorite for first money. But Hogan wasn't hitting his shots and the heat and wind bothered him. He wound up with a 73 and a tie for ninth place.

Deadlocked at 72 were Buck White of Greenwood, Miss.; Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.; Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia.

Schoendienst Shrugs Off His Batting Lead

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — Smiling Red Schoendienst shrugged his shoulders and said: "it's just one of those things."

That's the answer as far as Red is concerned for his quick pull into the National League batting lead with a nifty .365 average.

The veteran St. Louis Cardinal second baseman, who incidentally didn't know he had taken over the lead with his three hits in five trips against Cincinnati last night at Busch Stadium, just doesn't have a reason for his present splurge—a splurge that has carried him from a slow-starting .250 average just a month ago.

"I'm not doing anything now that I haven't done before," said Schoendienst, who has a lifetime .282 average, in the club house after the game. "I'm swinging at the same pitches and hitting the same pitches."

What it breaks down to is the old baseball axiom. Schoendienst is hitting 'em where they ain't.

He did just that last night in his usual switch-hit performance at the plate. Batting right handed against southpaw Ken Raffensberger, Schoendienst hit two singles in three trips. Then batting lefty against an assortment of right handed reliefers he got one for two, another single.

It was the last hit, a solid single off the right field screen on a 3-2 pitch, that carried Schoendienst past Philadelphia's Johnny Wyrostek. The Phils' slugger, tied with Schoendienst going into last night's game at .354, got two for four against Pittsburgh for a .360 average.

St. Louis Corners High School Baseball

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Missouri state high school baseball tournament has become an all-St. Louis affair.

The three out-state teams were defeated in the quarter-finals yesterday.

Normandy defeated Caruth, 4-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Jim Johnston, who struck out 17.

Native Dancer, Arcaro Head Preakness Talk

BALTIMORE (AP)—A horse named Native Dancer and a jockey named Eddie Arcaro were two hot topics of conversation today on the eve of the Preakness although they won't be together and both were beaten in the Kentucky Derby.

Native Dancer had staid Pimlico as excited as it ever has been in its 83 years of horse racing. "Is he as great as he looked before Dark Star outran him in the Derby?" That's the burning question before the full house of about 35,000 answer seekers tomorrow.

The Alfred G. Vanderbilt gray ghost will have another crack at Harry Guggenheim's Dark Star and five others in the mile and three sixteenths race for $113,750.

The middle gem of the Triple Crown of racing will be on nation-wide radio and television (CBS, 4:45 p. m. EST).

Since the Derby upheld the cliche that anything can happen in a horse race, the quintet of outsiders isn't being overlooked entirely for another upset.

These include Eugene Constantin Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem, Jim Norris' Jamie K., Bruce Campbell's Ram o' War, Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's Correspondent and Ben Whitaker's Tahitian King.

On the record, Arcaro has the most undistinguished of the lot, Jamie K. But whoever the nation's No. 1 jockey rides commands a lot of betting respect and the handicappers figure Arcaro's presence will hike Jamie K. to fourth choice behind Native Dancer, Dark Star and Royal Bay Gem.

Cotton League Whips Racial Problem Which Threatened Existence

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., (AP) — The Class C Cotton States League, which has survived three wars, floods, pestilence and a depression to keep going in 40 of its 52 years, has apparently smoothed over a racial problem which threatened its existence.

The Hot Springs Bathers re-optioned Negro pitcher Jim Tugerson to Knoxville, Tenn., of the Mountain States League and reportedly made a change in club executives.

League President Al Haraway of Helena, Ark., said last night:

"The Hot Springs matter has cleared itself up."

He added he thought the question was settled for good this time and canceled a league meeting which had been called for today.

There was, however, still the threat of a civil rights suit by Tugerson.

A reliable source said Lewis Goltz, Bather co-owner and president who had led the fight to introduce Negroes to the Arkansas-Mississippi-Louisiana circuit, had resigned and transferred his stock in the club.

Another club official declined to confirm or deny the report immediately but indicated an announcement would be forthcoming today.

Brosius, Allen Lead

CHICAGO, (AP) — Ed Brosius of Chicago and Jim Allen of Alexandria, La., will highlight action in the American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament Friday as they meet in the winner's bracket. Both Brosius and Allen have won five straight matches in the double elimination tournament.

Sports Interest Jimmy Boyd More Than $100,000 Earnings

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jimmy Boyd is a 14-year-old who appears destined to make $100,000 this summer, but the money doesn't seem to interest him much. He'd rather talk about sports.

When I asked him what he was going to do with all those dollars, he replied: "I don't know. I haven't seen any of them yet."

As a matter of fact, he gets only $2 a week spending money, his mother says. Most of his salary is put into a fund to be used when he grows up.

Big things are happening to little Jimmy. He is getting ready to start his first movie, a race track story called "Run For the Money." He'll appear with Bill Williams (Kit Carson to TV addicts) and Jean Porter.

Then he'll hit the road with a 13-week tour of the rodeo circuit, which will net him a tidy sum. He'll sing some songs and maybe do a little calf roping.

All this doesn't seem to faze Jimmy. A freckle-faced lad with an infectious giggle, he seems as much interested in sports and horses as in the bright lights he has been basking under in the past year.

"There's one thing I don't like," he admitted. "I gotta go to a professional school where they don't have much sports at all. When I'm on the road, I got a tutor. I'd rather be in a school where I could play football and basketball. They're my favorites, those and swimming."

He also has his own horse, of which he is mighty proud. He's looking forward to the rodeo tour with great eagerness.

The rise of Jimmy Boyd is one of those amazing things that make show business fascinating. Nobody ever dreamed that a lad in his lower teens could become a record star. But he did, thanks to a ditty called "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus."

Jimmy started twanging his guitar and singing folk songs in his home town of McComb, Miss. When his family moved to Riverside, Calif., he took a few lessons from Mrs. Dorothy Hansen, a music teacher. Soon he was performing on local programs. The big chance in his life started when he auditioned for the Al Jarvis TV show in Hollywood in June, 1951.

He sang "I'm Little But I'm Loud." Whammo! Things began happening. He started appearing with Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby, Toast of the Town—and then came "Santa Claus."

St. Louis Blaze Hurts 2 Firemen, Costs $100,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two firemen were seriously injured today in a $100,000 furniture company fire that attracted thousands of spectators and tied up traffic in a busy section of central St. Louis.

The first-floor ceiling of the two-story brick building of Dau the House Furnisher, Inc. collapsed at 5:30 a. m. (CDT), burying the two firemen under debris.

Injured were Capt. Quentin O'Neal and fireman Edward Dickson, Negroes.

Three other firemen were treated for minor injuries and smoke inhalation suffered in battling the blaze which was discovered at 9:42 p. m. yesterday.

Flames broke through the roof of the combination office building and warehouse and spark-laden smoke billowed hundreds of feet in the air.

Five charms were sounded and 35 pieces of fire - fighting equipment were used in the battle against the fire, which fed on new furniture.

The fire blocked Delmar and University streetcars on the Olive line until after 2 a. m.

Damage was estimated by firemen and company officials at more than $100,000. There was some smoke and water damage to two adjoining business firms which were threatened for a time by the blaze.

Leaves Girl Friend, Then His Troubles More Than Treble

DENVER (AP)—The hot spot, 'tis said, has no fury like a woman scorned, and to that an "Amen" from bleary-eyed Herman Mays of Denver.

His troubles more than trebled the day he decided to part company with his girl friend, he told Municipal Judge George McNamara.

Shortly, his telephone began ringing in the late night and early morning.

Then fire trucks sirened up to his house very, very early one May morn.

Taxicabs, and drivers, appeared at the Mays' house nearly every morning—at someone's request but never his.

Police cars responding to riot calls kept ending up at Mays' front door at 2 a. m.

One morning, an undertaker appeared—at 2 o'clock.

Mays lost patience, he said, when two days ago a delivery boy appeared, at 2 a. m. with four bucks worth of barbecued ribs—c.o.d.

The ex-girl friend was summoned before the judge, pleaded innocent to charges of turning in a false alarm and disturbance. But he was skeptical and gave her five days on each charge.

'World Citizen' Sails For India After His Sitdown Strike Fails

TILBURY, England (AP)—"World Citizen" Garry Davis sailed toward India today after a sitdown strike outside Buckingham Palace failed to win him permission to stay in England.

The 31-year-old actor—who renounced his American citizenship in Paris in 1948 and called himself world citizen No.1—boarded the liner Stratheden yesterday just seven hours before his deadline to leave the country. He had come to England originally in the cast of the play "Stalag 17," which flopped.

Davis won wide publicity when he camped in front of Queen Elizabeth's palace earlier this month in an effort to win an extension of his visitor's permit. The police hustled him to court and charged him with "wandering about"—as British law terms vagrancy. The court gave him until yesterday to get out of England.

A philosopher in India has invited him there for a visit.

Utah Investigates Possibility Soldiers Robbed Crash Bodies

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—The possibility that victims of a South-eastern Idaho plane crash were robbed by some of the soldiers sent to guard their bodies is being investigated today by officials of the Utah General Depot.

Col. L. L. Skinner, depot commander, announced that three soldiers are in custody at the Depot pending investigation of allegations that certain personal property is missing from the scene of the crash where 37 returning Korean veterans and three civilian members of the crew met death last Jan. 7. Their C46 plane smashed against a mountain side near the Utah-Idaho border.

The men being held are members of a military detail sent to guard the crash. Only recently did Army officials begin to bring the bodies down from the crash site. Deep snow had prevented removal earlier. Some of the bodies still are buried.

Brooklyn Bridge Will Be 70 Sunday, Rumors Debunked

NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Bridge will be 70 years old Sunday, and maybe it's time to kill a few ugly rumors which have plagued the old lady since her days as the glamor queen of suspension bridges.

First off, there is no evidence to support the notion that the Brooklyn Bridge ever was party to a confidence game.

Old-timers in the city Department of Public Works, in the Police Department and district attorney's office can't recall a single instance of record where anybody actually tried to sell the bridge to a sucker. Nobody seems to know how the rumor got started in the first place.

It took $15,500,000 and more than 13 years to build the bridge. At today's prices, according to J. Frank Johnson, director of the Division of Bridges, its replacement would cost about $75,000,000.

When it was opened with fireworks and oratory in 1883, the bridge was the longest suspension span in the world, stretching 1,594½ inches across the East River. It held that title for 20 years. Today it ranks ninth among suspension bridges, but for beauty of line and proportion many experts claim that its granite and steel grace still is second to none. Also, it still is said to rank first in personal publicity. No bridge ever had more written about it or more pictures painted of it.

Even so, the bridge today would be a poor buy at almost any price. The cruel truth about the Brooklyn Bridge is that it earns no money. It has been many years since it did.

In the old days, it cost pedestrians a penny to walk across. Sheep and hogs were charged two cents each and a one-horse wagon paid 10 cents. (A second horse raised the tariff to 20 cents). But tolls were cut out a long time ago. Today, no animals or trucks or trains cross the bridge. Only cars and pedestrians, for free.

Now about Steve Brodie, that Fourth Ward newsboy who was supposed to have jumped on July 23, 1886. Early that afternoon a man—or something—was seen to plunge off the bridge. A few seconds later, Brodie was hauled out of the river by friends in a rowboat. It has always remained a moot question whether Brodie actually jumped or simply dropped into the river from a boat and waited for a dummy to fall in.

Right now, the Brooklyn Bridge is a one-way affair because of extensive reconstruction.

By late this year or early next, the work will be completed, and it will be able to handle twice as much traffic. Even so, it still won't make money.

But you take the George Washington Bridge or the Lincoln Tunnel. Now there's a buy.

Knowland Offers Long Memorial Day Weekend If Senators Hustle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) today offered senators a long Memorial Day weekend if they operate in high gear next week.

Knowland, as acting Republican leader, offered a recess from Thursday to Monday if the Senate cleans up this schedule:

1. A decision on the effort of Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) to regain seats on enlarged armed services and labor committees.
2. A decision on President Eisenhower's plan to reorganize the Agriculture Department.
3. Consideration of the annual money bill for the State, Justice and Commerce Departments.
4. Passage of an extension of the doctor draft law.
5. Consideration of a bill to lump all appropriations into a single package after this year.

Knowland conceded all this legislation may not be ready for Senate action during the week.

Britain Sends Finance Expert to Red China

LONDON (AP)—Britain has named an economic and financial expert to head her diplomatic mission to Communist China. The appointment may mean that the British intend to try even harder to rebuild their traditional trade with Peiping, despite American criticism.

A foreign office spokesman announced last night that Humphrey Trevelyan, now serving as economic adviser to the British High Commission in West Germany, is to take over from Sir Lionel Lamb, British Charge d'Affaires in the Chinese capital.

Trevelyan, 47, has had wide Asian experience. Lamb will return to Britain for reassignment.

Dulles Asks Russians To Show Sincerity On Three Fronts

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — U. S. Secretary of State Dulles called on the Russians today to show the sincerity of their peace overtures on three fronts—Korea, Laos and Austria.

As Dulles' boss, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and the French government prepared for a Big Three meeting on East-West questions next month in Bermuda, Dulles told the first press conference of his Middle East tour:

"I doubt very important results could come out of any high level conference including the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc of nations is promoting the wars in Korea and Laos, and so long as they refuse to restore freedom to Austria."

Dulles met with some 100 Indian and foreign newsmen as he wound up a three-day visit here prior to his departure for Karachi, capital of neighboring Pakistan.

THERE is a great deal of organization needed for a Royal visit. There is tremendous advance excitement and detailed preparation. All the local dignitaries get out their robes or have their best suits pressed. Their wives are thrown into a frenzy of ironing and other activity.

Those responsible for the ceremonies of the occasion are busy too. Precedence of presentation to Royalty is a matter of great importance to them.

If the Princess was to arrive by train there was an official welcome to prepare, police arrangements to be made at the station, and then the planning of a day packed with visits, speeches, and drives.

This was the day of days for the town and its citizens; but for the Princess this was her life, day after day. She can look forward to a future of similar functions: the trip by train or car; the loyal speech of welcome: her gracious reply—everything falling into a set and familiar pattern. Local newspapers filled their columns with descriptions of her smile, her voice, the names of people who had been presented to her, the decorations in the streets, the crowds.

For every one of the many thousands who flock to see her the visit of a Queen is a great occasion.

Unforgettable for them! But what of her, who must be somewhere else tomorrow, walking the aisles of another cathedral, listening to the Dean's reminiscences, inspecting more walls filled with paintings, and making bright and memorable remarks about them?

Surely the wonder is that she remembers any of the hundreds of people she meets in a week of such visits.

But she does remember. To keep names and faces in her mind is part of her task. And her memory starts working even before she comes to a place.

This may be her first visit to the town, but she knows that her father or her grandfather visited it long ago. Perhaps he received a gold casket or some other memento.

Memento is for memory, and Queen Elizabeth is careful to recall the gift in reply to the Lord Mayor's loyal address. She knows his name and the names of other local notabilities who may be presented to her. And she will recall their names and faces if ever they come before her again.

No one who has seen her on one of these visits has felt for a moment that it was just routine for her. Because it was not so, really. It was meeting people—and she likes people.

• • •

I HAVE seen her stand for hours at the window of her apartment in Buckingham Palace from which she could see, through the lace curtains, Big Ben's face and look right down the Mall to the Admiralty Arch. Then she would look down to the scattered sightseers in front of the Palace gates. They would look up, asking one another which room is the King's, where the Throne room is, trying to imagine what is behind each window.

They little thought that at the same time a Royal Princess was wondering about them!

It was the same in Canada, where Princess Elizabeth was undertaking the first State visit of her career, as the representative of her father.

To the King and Queen at home the daily news of the progress of their daughter's tour of the Dominion must have recalled vivid memories of their own visit to Canada and the United States in the summer of July, 1939.

Queen Elizabeth knew for 15 years the dignity and responsibility that the Heir to the Throne must carry.

Although she could not have realized then all that the change would mean to her, she certainly did know that in leaving the old home at 145 Piccadilly, after the Abdication, she would be leaving some of her childhood behind.

• • •

SHE was no plaster saint, but always a human little person—sometimes quick-tempered and inclined to be a little overcritical. The curious thing, however, was that she was quick to see her own faults when they were pointed out to her, and eager to correct them.

Seeing her so perfectly dressed whether for a military parade or for a garden party, it seemed strange to me to recall that in her teens she was never particularly concerned about her appearance. But since wearing the right things at the right times was a duty, she conformed without demur.

At one time she had a great deal of fun experimenting with various styles of make-up. One day she came down with a vivid splotch of crimson caked round her lips. This apparition in the sober surroundings of our schoolroom at Windsor Castle was as startling a splash of red as a poppy in the snow.

She saw me looking rather dubiously at her. "Crawfie," she exclaimed, "what is the matter with you this morning? Why have you been staring at me?"

"It's your mouth," I said firmly. "You look as if you'd dipped it into a pot of plum jam. It doesn't go with your coloring at all. You need a light cherry lipstick."

Nothing more was said. She did not wipe the paint off at once, but before the end of the morning the smear had become a little less obvious.

Odds and Ends
By News Staff.

The bowling team had done wonderful all year, in fact they had been in second place all season and they had no reason to believe they wouldn't come out with a little cash on hand when the season was over.

"I'm going to buy Bene a planter for her coffee table with my share of the winners money", said one of the members of the team.

That was at the beginning, and the more the team bowled that night the worse it got it kept dropping behind and finally the girl turned to the one she had told what she was going to do with her money.

"There goes Gene's planter," she said, and sure enough if Gene gets a planter it is going to be some other way besides the money won by the bowling.

When one of the girls on the losing team, that thought they would at least be in the second place, told about how they lost someone said to a friend: "Aren't you a little ashamed of the showing she made?" but the friend only looked at her in admiration. "Oh, no," she said, "I admire anyone who can even lift a bowling ball—I just can't seem to life one myself."—H. L.

Honey is a little black pup and he is ready for another picnic.

One night the family went with some friends on a picnic and Honey was taken along. He had just the grandest time you could imagine because everyone fed him and he ate just anything anybody stuck under his little nose.

Almost everybody there gave him a piece of wiener or a whole one, in fact he had more than anybody there and he didn't have to roast them. He just had the nicest roasted weiners given to him and now and then a raw one—but it didn't make much difference to Honey what kind they were, he liked them both ways.

He liked the potato chips and cookies, too, and he liked the marshmallows, but there he ran into a little trouble. After all, nobody had told him that those nice little ball like things with powder on them were so gooey, and when one of the boys gave him one he gave it to him whole. Poor little Honey's mouth was all stuck up with the soft, sticky stuff and the more he chewed the worse it got—so finally he did the only thing he knew to do, spit it out. But he just hated to give up anything as good tasting as that and while he stood there looking at it trying to figure how to go about eating it one of the girls pulled it into small bits and he finished off his meal in good shape.

Just what the result of so many wieners and other picnic food would have on Honey the group wondered, but Honey came through feeling just fine and ready to go on another picnic anytime someone says the word.—H. L.

U. S. Sailors Replace Farouk as King of Riviera

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

CANNES — The U. S. sailor is now King of the Riviera.

A few years back — before taxes and revolutions — merchants used to gibber with glee when the Maharajah of Zanzibar appeared with his favorite wife, who wore a diamond in her left nostril.

Now they do a joyous jig on spotting our Mediterranean fleet, which calls every 30 or 40 days.

The sailors spend more than $2,000,000 yearly to help replace currency characters like flabby ex-King Farouk.

Last year Egypt's then-employed monarch ran up a $6000-daily Cannes hotel bill, including eight three-minute eggs for each breakfast. This season, down to his last three paunches, he's merely a house guest.

The average sailor, being perhaps 18 and as careful with cash as a Panamanian monkey with bananas, spills $50 on a two - day shore leave. Cunning chislers gladly help.

Saloons sell beer at 40 cents a watery glass; taxicabs charge 75 cents for a 10-block haul; a cut of "steak" (probably horse), soggy potato chips and wine rejected by the cat bring three bucks.

The kind of ladies called "seagulls" follow the fleet around the Mediterranean lifting wallets.

Perfune peddlers collect dollars to send Sis or honey - bun a two-ounce bottle then mail one half that size.

I found one bright spot on the wonderful waterfront at nearby Villefrance — "Mere Germaine"— delights the nostrils with steaming fish soup. It's wall is papered with snaps of assorted sailors and visiting warships.

Sailors line up to try her filet mignon, thick as your wrist, drink beer and play the wheezing victrola, which has such oldies as "Yes, Sir, She's My Baby."

Romance, besides fish soup, is in the air as outside French delightfuls soak sun wearing bathing suits that could be carried in your hip pocket.

There are only 6000 citizens in Villefrance but already 40 girls have married swabbies on shore leave since the fleet started calling in 1948. Many more are committed.

This includes most of the original waitresses as well as Mom's daughter, Claire, now Mrs. Thomas Kelly, of New Rochelle, N. Y., owner of two bi - lingual small fry.

One tray pusher, who parleys no English, met a New Jersey boy who can't even say "Merci" and married him—through an interpretor — on his next Riviera shore leave.

Young males hereabouts tell me they're ready to adopt the Communist slogan — "Yanks — Go Home!" — unless President Eisenhower sends over the WAVES.

Mom polices her own joint, and if any type gets stewed she shoves his head under a cold water faucet, then pumps him with onion soup until he can navigate a gangplank in a 100 - mile hurricane.

"The shore patrol," she says, "has no business here, except for the midnight shift, which I serve free morning chow."

When the fleet puts to sea, Mom hires a rowboat and cruises alongside. Her chums lower baskets and she hands out loaves of French bread sliced in half and jammed with ham, cheese and other items—just so her boys won't starve.

WHITE HATS ON THE RIVIERA are welcome sights to owners of cafes like this when the Mediterranean fleet hits port.

The World Today—

Gives Big 3 Talk Reasons

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, has declined to give details behind the President's proposal to meet with the heads of the British and French governments in June.

But the answer to at least one double question—why and when did Eisenhower decide to call the conference?—would throw a new light on the thinking of this administration in terms of world leadership.

Last March 15 Premier Malenkov, Stalin's successor, began the new Russian peace offensive with a speech saying there is no dispute between East and West which can't be settled peacefully. From then on Russians sounded milder.

One month later, April 16, President Eisenhower made a speech. He, too, expressed desire for world peace but asked the Russians what they were willing to do to bring peace. He asked them to demonstrate by deeds.

He listed some major sore points between East and West he wants to see settled: the Korean and Indochina wars, a united Germany, conclusion of an Austrian peace treaty.

The Russians did nothing in the way of deeds mentioned by Eisenhower. In spite of the exchange of wounded prisoners in Korea, truce talks there bogged down over the fate of unwounded Communist prisoners who did not want to return home.

Almost another whole month passed. Then on May 11 Sir Winston Churchill, who had praised Eisenhower's mid-April speech but had remained silent thereafter, got up to speak in the House of Commons.

He, too, wanted peace, he said. He suggested a conference of a very few of the top powers. He mentioned no names but it was assumed he meant himself, Eisenhower and Malenkov. There was an angry reaction in France.

And, in an apparent nudge to Eisenhower that just having the big power conference was more important than requiring the Russians to fulfill a bill of particulars beforehand, Churchill said:

"I think it would be a mistake to assume that nothing can be settled until all has been settled."

The speech came as a shock to Washington. It reflected a difference between the two big allies, the U. S. and Britain, in dealing with Russia.

The State Department, besieged by reporters for its views on what Churchill said, took two days to issue a statement which was a repetition of what Eisenhower had said in April:

That the President was willing to have a big powers meeting but the Russians should first give "concrete evidence" of sincere peaceful intentions.

The next day at his news conference Eisenhower repeated he wanted the Russians to show by deeds they were in earnest and added that they hadn't shown any such deeds yet. Replying to Churchill indirectly, he said he didn't mean to imply that unless the Russians did this or that specifically he wouldn't do this or that.

In the meantime Laborite Leader Clement Attlee made a speech of his own, one which was considered rudely critical by many in Congress, and which led to a row between Attlee and Sen. McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican.

The Churchill speech and the Attlee row pointed up something which seemed to have been simmering below the surface a good while: differences between this country and some of its allies.

Yesterday Eisenhower asked Churchill and the head of the French government, when a new one is chosen after yesterday's French cabinet collapse, to meet with him. The meeting will probably be in Bermuda in June.

The unanswered question which came to mind at once was: had Eisenhower been planning this conference all the time or had he been pushed into it by Churchill's speech?

Because of the way things have been going among the allies, Eisenhower certainly knew that before they sit down with the Russians—if they do—they had better iron out their differences and present a common front to Malenkov. Otherwise the Russians could exploit their differences.

Jet Aces Board Plane for US. Still Grumpy

TOKYO (AP)—Newly-decorated but still a bit grumpy at the Air Force stopping their MIG-hunting, the two greatest jet aces in the world prepared to board a late afternoon plane for the United States.

Captains Joseph McConnell Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., and Manuel J. Fernandez Jr., 27, of Miami, Fla., have orders to report directly to U. S. Air Force headquarters in Washington.

Each was routed from bed at 7:30 a. m. to receive the Dsitinguished Service Cross and Silver Star from Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Forces commander.

They do not know what their new jobs will be but both said they will apply energetically for second tours of Sabre jet missions in Korea.

McConnell, top ace, shot down 16 MIGs in 106 missions and Fernandez destroyed 14 in 125. Both were grounded abruptly by Lt. Gen. Glenn Barcus, Fifth Air Force commander. He turned a deaf ear when they pleaded to continue fighting MIGs.

It's no secret that the Air Force didn't want its two top MIG killers to push their luck too far.

Last year, Maj. George Davis of Lubbock, Tex., went down in North Korea after shooting down 11 MIGs and three prop-driven Communist planes. Davis was the first Sabre pilot to continue MIG shooting after reaching ace status (five MIGs downed) and there was some unpleasant reaction from the United States when his plane crashed. He is listed as missing.

At a news conference today, McConnell and Fernandez said they didn't know why they had been grounded.

"We don't know what's behind it," Fernandez said, and chuckled: "I guess they wanted to get some of us back alive."

Steelworkers' Chief Leads His First Wage-Boost Drive

WASHINGTON—David J. McDonald, new president of the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, takes the spotlight on the labor stage as for the first time he heads the negotiating committee in wage negotiations with U. S. Steel Corp. executives.

The result of these talks may determine whether there will be what amounts to a seventh round of U. S. wage increases since the end of World War II. Big Steel has in general set the pace for this advance. The new steel workers' president thinks it should continue.

The base wage in steel was 78 cents an hour during the war. It was raised by 9¼ cents in January, 1946, and another 9¼ cents in February, 1947. Then came increases of 12½ cents in April, 1947, 9½ cents in July, 1948, and finally, two raises of 12½ cents each in December, 1950 and March 1952.

The total increase is 65½ cents an hour to today's level of $1.43½. This is only the base, or minimum job, class-one level.

The average steel wage rate is $2.00 an hour. And the American Iron and Steel Institute has just released figures indicating that with fringe benefits for insurance, pensions, paid vacations, holidays, shift differentials and overtime, the labor cost to the steel industry averages $2.38 an hour.

Dave McDonald, the man who now leads the drive to increase these returns to the steelworkers, isn't as well known as his predecessor, the late Philip Murray, who was also president of the CIO But McDonald says he will simply be carrying on Murray's policies.

Became Understudy To Murray at 21

The two first became associated in 1923 when McDonald, then 21, took a job as private secretary to Murray, who was at that time vice president of the United Mine Workers. Murray was an understudy to John L. Lewis. McDonald became an understudy to Murray and stayed with him all thru the past 30 years, while the steelworkers were organized, the CIO took shape and the break came with Lewis.

McDonald was secretary-treasurer under Murray till the steelworkers made him their president at Atlantic City last month.

McDonald today is 50. He is big, gray-eyed and gray-haired. He smokes big pipes and big cigars. He is soft-spoken — like Lewis is and Murray always was in their opening remarks. But when he gets warmed up, he likes to throw his weight around—again like Lewis and Murray—and cuss people out, like a steelworker.

Dave McDonald is the son of an Irish father who migrated to America by way of Wales. His father was run out of Springfield, Ill., for taking part in an old Knights of Labor strike. He settled in Pittsburgh. Dave was born there.

He got through two years of high school by age 15 and then went to work in a steel mill. He took some night-school courses in accounting and got a certificate from a school of dramatics.

He still likes the theater and in making speeches or conducting labor negotiations, he isn't above using touches of what might be called the dramatic art. After all, Lewis and Murray, before him, never hesitated to ham up the act when given a good cue.

Union Offices Are In New Building

McDonald makes his headquarters in Pittsburgh, where the present wage negotiations are being held. But recently the steelworkers moved their Washington offices out of the crowded CIO building near the White House, into a big, new air-conditioned building.

Tastefully decorated in brown and beige, with modernistic desks and chairs, the union's suite is only a trifle less lush than the U. S. Steel Corp. Washington offices a block away.

After all, the steelworkers' union is now big business itself. It has 1,250,000 members. Its financial statements show assets of close to $11 million.

McDonald doesn't go along with the Walter Reuther idea of fixed annual productivity increases for labor, nor with escalator clauses tied to the cost of living.

"The Lord help labor," he says, "if it ever gets wages tied down to cost of living." He recalls the story of an old mineworker in Pennsylvania who was objecting to what he tfought was a sliding-scale clause in a coal contract. "What zips up," he cried out, "must zip down."

McDonald sees little hope of the Republican Congress doing anything about Taft-Hartley act revision this year. But he has no doubt that if his present negotiations lead to a strike, President Eisenhower will invoke a Taft-Hartley injunction again his union.

Only the wage provisions of the steel labor contract are up for revision this year. But the full contract expires July 1, 1954. And before that time President McDonald wants the steel companies to begin studies on his union's proposals for a guaranteed annual wage.

Lutheran Charities Favors Admitting 240,000 Refugees

CHICAGO (AP) — The Associated Lutheran Charities has put itself on record in favor of admitting "at least 240,000 refugees" into the United States.

In adopting the resolution yesterday urging Congress to take such action, the association said, "The need for another settlement program is imperative."

Joint sessions of this organization and the Lutheran Welfare Conference of America concluded with election of officers by both groups.

The Rev. E. B. Glabe of Minneapolis was elected president of the Associated Lutheran Charities, succeeding the Rev. Henry F. Wind of Buffalo, N. Y.

The Rev. Forrest R. Stoneburner of Dayton, O., was elected president of the Lutheran Welfare conference, succeeding Dr. Magnus Dahlen of Minneapolis.

Hawkins Has Great Time Even Though It Rains In Texas

Ask A. L. Hawkins whether he's ready to attend another convention like the one from which he just returned, and he'll say, "You bet your life, I want to go. But I want some sunshiny wheather the next time."

Back on May 10, the Democrat announced that Hawkins, district superintendent of the Reliable Life Insurance Co., and Guy Woolery, agent, had been selected to attend the company's convention in Galveston, Tex., from May 14-17, and that the men would "enjoy deep sea and surf fishing."

Unfortunately, Hawkins said, he had to be content with a steady diet of rain and seafood caught and prepared by someone else.

He and Woolery left Sedalia on Tuesday, May 12, at 9:25 p. m. and arrived in Galveston on Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. They passed by Waco at night and were unable to view any of the damage which had been caused there only two days earlier—by a tornado which took 88 lives in that city.

It was raining when the two men arrived in Galveston and rain was still falling when they left Sunday to return home. High winds made it difficult to walk on the streets.

The convention, however, was anything but a wash-out, Hawkins said. Sightseeing buses took the representatives around the harbor, and they were conducted through the battleship USS Texas. They also visited other tourist attractions in the area, including the Sam Houston Monument which is only a few feet shorter than the 555-foot Washington Monument in Washington, D. C.

All the representatives had to wear Texan ten-gallon hats every where they went, and Hawkins said he and Woolery brought theirs home with them. They also brought back TV lamps made of seashells taken from the beach at Galveston.

The seafood was the only food available, but Hawkins isn't complaining. They know how to do wonderful things with it down there. And the accompanying entertainment made it all the better.

In attendance at the convention were the chief company officials, the agency vice-president and the general counsel. Cash prizes were presented to leading agents. Eddie Goldhammer, of Jefferson City, won $25 for having the lowest arrears in the first four months of 1953.

Hawkins was chosen to attend because he was high man in this area. His district placed fifth in the four-state area of Texas, Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas. Woolery was one of the top 40 agents of a group of 541.

Here he places the ring on the finger of the bride, the former Sharon Fink, as Judge O. Q. Claffin III performs the ceremony. At left is the bride's father, William B. Fink, who was best man. Labels Grazing Bill Attempt Of Land Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Gavin (R-Pa) today described a proposed grazing bill as "an attempt by a small group in the West to gain control of one segment of the resources of our public lands."

Gavin, whose Western Pennsylvania district includes the Allegheny National Forest, said in a statement to be read to a House subcommittee on public lands that his constituents see in the bill "a threat to the future security of our federal wildlife refuges, our national parks, our national forests and other public lands.

The bill would provide, among other things, that holders of grazing privileges on public land would be given preference for continued use of their grazing allotments and that they would be permitted to pass on the allotments to their successors.

"What right has one group in the West to dictate the use, management and disposition of grazing privileges on our public lands?" Gavin asked. "Other groups, finding the door open, will crowd in to obtain special rights to imber, water, wildlife and recreational values."

Gavin said his people help pay for the maintenance of public lands, parks and forests and therefore wjnt "to keep control of those lands in the hands of all the people."

Floods Deluge South, Tornado Strikes North

By The Associated Press

Damage from the spring season's stormy weather mounted today from floods which harrassed Louisiana and Texas and tornadoes that struck with devastating blows over Michigan-Canadian border area.

At least four persons were killed Thursday in twisters that lashed the twin cities of Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ontario, and nearby areas on the border. Scores were injured. Property damage was in the millions of dollars.

Rescue workers hunted for additional victims in the tornado-stricken region. Three were killed in Sarnia, and one in Port Huron. Earlier reports had seven killed. Weather observers said such violent twisters were regarded as rare so far north.

The death toll from floods in Louisiana rose to eight since rain-swollen rivers and bayous started overflowing late last week.

No drownings, however, were reported in Lake Charles where the highest flood in 40 years has caused two million dollars damage to property.

Orange, Tex., 35 miles southwest of Lake Charles, braced for severe flooding from the Sabine River which divides Texas and Louisiana.

The stormy and windy weather which whipped the western sections of the Great Lakes region Thursday abated during the night. However, a new storm center in the Plains states threatened to bring stormy weather over the southern half of the Lakes section today.

Thunderstorms were general over the Central Mississippi Valley and along the western slope of the Alleghanies in Pennsylvania and western New York.

Generally fair weather was reported over the southern half of sections of the nation, and along the Eastern and Pacific coasts.

The Tule cypress of Santa del Tule, southern Mexico, is claimed to be the biggest and oldest tree in the world. Its girth is about 112 feet at about five feet above the ground.

Ministers Talk About Clergy Style Trends

DENVER (AP)—Shop-talking delegates to the American Baptist Convention here were concerned Friday with what ministers should wear.

The question may seem simple to laymen. But it's important to men of the cloth. They must consider carefully because of the shoals of public opinion.

Some hold for the dark, somewhat somber suit, at all times. On the other hand, some admire more casual attire, perhaps even colorful sports jackets and bright bow ties.

A Rocky Mountain News sampling among ministers here for the convention found, in general:

1. No one wears the swallow tail coat any more.

2. Westerners favor more casual clothing for their ministers, while Easterners prefer more somber dress.

3. The trend is to "regular guy" dress.

Some typical opinions:

The Rev. R. W. Dutton, Phoenix, Ariz.—"I dress informally, myself. We try to encourage a friendly service with dignity. It helps esprit de corps if the minister isn't set apart. I wear a business suit for the formal services, but change to sport clothes for Sunday night."

The Rev. LaRue A. Loughhead, Hudson Falls, N. Y., somberly dressed and wearing no convention badge "because I'm not a badge-wearer"—said he was too young for blacks and preferred dark-colored business suits.

Capt. Willard Justice, a neutral because he wears the uniform of an Army chaplain at the Dugway Proving Ground in Utah—"It all depends on whether you believe in high liturgy, or if you have a pulpit ministry. It is sometimes a good idea to wear casual clothes to be a regular guy, but clothing itself won't do it all."

The Rev. Gordon A. Gilbert, Norbeth, Pa.—Formal attire is demanded in the pulpit on all occasions. It lends more dignity to the occasion. But for an affair involving very young couples, I'll change to a business suit."

The Rev. Bob Heydon, Fort Madison, Iowa—"I think the clothes you wear depend on the specific situation. I go for darker clothes at the morning service and lighter clothes in the evening."

The Rev. Charles C. Henderson, Wichita, Kan.—"I favor the darker clothing. It helps me. I'm young and a dark suit adds a few years. For the evening, though, I'll take the evangelistic garb."

He said he referred to sports jackets and bow ties.

The Rev. Earl F. Edmonds, Omaha—"I believe we should be conservative, but we've got to dress like other people."

A staidly-dressed minister walked up to a group discussing the matter and said:

"Confidentially, when this dark suit of mine wears out, I'm going to try one of the sportier models."

Bender Tells Democrats Facts of Patronage, Quotes James Farley

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) advised the Democrats today: "Stop bellyaching if your office holders are losing their jobs. The shoe's on the other foot now."

Bender prepared a speech for the House in which he quoted these as the words of James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman in 1933:

"Patronage is a reward to those who have worked for party victory. . . . A Republican office-holder has a chance of reappointment—but he has two strikes on him. If he knows more about his job than anybody else, he will hold his position. But if there is a Democrat just as well qualified, the Democrat will get the job."

Bender said this quotation appeared in the American magazine just after the Democrats took over from the Hoover administration.

Filipinos Adjourn, Fail to Ratify Japanese Treaty

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine Congress adjourned last midnight amid a flurry of flying ink pots and fisticuffs—still failing to ratify the Japanese peace treaty signed in 1951.

The 100-day regular session ended shortly after the Congress approved a national budget of $275,608,420, including 10 million dollars as counterpart funds for U. S. aid.

Tempers erupted into two fights, both resulting from persistent heckling in the last hours of the session.

Sources said today a special session may be called to consider ratification of the Japanese peace treaty if Japan submits a "satisfactory" answer to a Philippine request for a definite commitment on war reparations.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Middle-aged Man's Dreams Would Startle His Family

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughs of—well, what many a middle-aged fellow has been thinking of all winter.

L-O-V-E!

Love is a subject the middle-aged man isn't supposed to concern himself huch with. By now he is expected to have his affairs of the heart settled, and to devote himself to more serious matters.

The middle-aged man is the workhorse of our civilization. His colt days are past, he is too young to be put out to pasture, and the world counts on him to bend into his harness and plow a straight furrow, and no nonsense about it.

This is what most middle-aged men do. They accept the harness whether it chafes them or not, and quietly go about their duty, until they drop or are retired.

But even a workhorse must remember his coltish freedom. And it would startle many a placid family if they could see the daydreams that go on behind the tired eyes of their stolid middle-aged breadwinner, who seems so dull and common-place as he plods from home to job, from job to home.

Why, in his mind, he's no taken-for-granted baldy with a paunch. He's the ternal lover, a gay boy, a play boy, a free-wheeling Romeo who loves 'em and leaves 'em, and goes on laughing to the next one.

"What are you doing, Jones?" says the boss. And the daydream vanishes. But only until the boss is gone. The stenographer trips blithely by—and back comes that daydream. Boy, if she only knew. Jones has loved her and forgotten her before she even reaches the water cooler.

The world forgets the heart has neither season nor reason, and that most people all their lives are in love with love and hate responsibility. Poor middle-aged Jones is still fond of his wife. But he resents the fact that he bought her the first steak dinner of his own free will—but more or less had to buy her the next 999, on account of marriage.

And so Jones starts dreaming of how wonderful it would be to be free again. Actually he really doesn't want to, and would be frightened if he were.

Most middle-aged men who break up the patterns of their married life find it is no fun to be a colt again—a colt with a bald head.

But the married man who makes the mistake is one of the real tragic figures of our times. He is one who, having passed life's peak and started down, reaches second adolescence before he gets to his second childhood.

Young puppy love is heart-breaking enough; but middle-aged puppy love is mind-breaking as well as heart-breaking. And it gets no sympathy from the mob. People may pity an old fool, but they despise a middle-aged fool, and he usually gets to feel that way about himself, too.

He takes himself a new, young love and finds that isn't really what he wanted. He is now afraid of her and her youth as he was afraid before of growing old.

In Connecticut last week they hauled a 45-year-old father of 12 kids into court for annoying a 30-year-old single girl with love letters. One letter was 465 pages long and the prosecutor called it "drivel," which any 465-page love letter would have to be, even if Shakespeare wrote it.

"There was never any serious purpose in my mind," said the father. "I thought that maybe she'd say 'hello' and down deep in my heart I knew I'd be scared if she did."

There is a moral in this for all middle-aged fellows who suffer from what some doctors call "40-year male fever." Stick to your plowing and keep your daydreams to yourself, if you want to avoid the world's laughter—and writer's cramp.

"Jehosophat! Will the kid be okay?"

• You might have witnessed this with your own eyes.

But even though you were right at the spot, chances are that you had to turn to a newspaper to get the whole story.

Then, for the first time, you'd learn that the child's leg was caught in a water pipe . . . that firemen cut the pipe first, and then removed it from the leg safely.

Being on the spot is not much better than seeing a photograph of the action, or a headline, or hearing a brief announcement.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story. That's what the newspaper is for — news. Meaning pictures and sufficient words.

This goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

And since the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, you can see why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

THE SEDALIA WEEKLY DEMOCRAT

Volume Eighty-Five | Democrat Established 1868 | Sedalia, Missouri, Friday Morning, May 22, 1953 | No. 21 | $1.50 Per Year

Kansas City Firm Oks Lease Thursday For Location Here

The National Engineering and Manufacturing Co., makers of window fans, evaporative coolers and gas conversion burners as well as other items, is the firm which will locate in Sedalia. The present industrial fund campaign for $100,000 will provide the location and building.

Thursday morning the lease for the firm's rental of land and a building—to be supplied by funds in the $100,000 campaign — was negotiated by representatives of the firm and the Chamber of Comemrce industrial committee through the Sedalia Improvement Association.

Notes now being purchased in the industrial drive will be secured by the Sedalia Improvement Assn., Inc., which owns the land and will build the building and rent them to the company. Plans are for the association to pay interest on the investment.

H. F. Rodick, president, and Vernon F. Rodick, vice-president and general manager, father and son, were here to represent the National Engineering and Manufacturing Co., in Thursday's negotiations. Another son, Raymond Rodick, is production manager.

The land, purchased Wednesday for the plant, is located south of 16th Street between Lamine and the Warsaw Branch tracks. It includes approximately four acres. The one story building to be constructed there will be of the all-purpose type and will cover about one acre. Work on leveling and filling the land is now in progress.

Currently employing between 80 and 90 persons, the firm is located at 519 Wyandotte, Kansas City. The building housing the plant is in an area that must be be cleaned for widening of the Sixth Street Trafficway. This means the business must be moved by August 1.

The Rodicks have been in this same business for 17 years and they ship their products all over the United States. Their evaporative coolers have wide sale in the southern part of the country, but the other products go out to almost all states. All their employees, except a few in the office, are men.

Presently, the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce reports, the fund campaign has reached about one-third of the necessary goal of $100,000.

Claude Boul, president of the C. of C., said, after the lease signing, we in Sedalia have been clamoring for industry in the city. Now the Chamber of Commerce has done its part in interesting a firm in coming. The first has gone so far as to lease the land and building. Now it is up to us who have wanted an industry. We must put up the necessary money to provide the building. We will not be making donations, but investments on which interest will be paid to the investors."

Mike Giokaris, director, and Abe Silverman, chairman, represented the industrial development committee of the C. of C. in this matter. Officers and directors of the Sedalia Improvement Association, Inc., are: Claude L. Boul, president; I. H. Reed, vice-president; H. C. Salveter, secretary; H. R. Harris, treasurer; J. J. McGrath and Abe Silverman, directors; and Chester Brown, executive manager of the Chamber, assistant secretary-treasurer.

2 News Firms Ask Refunds On US Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—The Houston (Tex.) Post and Time, Inc., are each demanding large tax refunds from the government.

The Houston Post, owned by Secretary of Health and Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby and her husband, W. P. Hobby, is asking refunds coming to $745,890.

Time, Inc., the publishing company headed by Henry R. Luce, whose wife, Clare Booth Luce is ambassador to Italy, asks a refund of $293,290 in addition to $611,230 already refunded.

In both cases, the disputed tax has been paid, and in both cases the dispute is over calculation of excess profits tax. Both cases showed up in tax court as appeals from rulings by T. Coleman Andrews, the new commissioner of internal revenue.

Andrews ruled against the Houston Post by disallowing its claims that it had overpaid its excess profits tax in 1944 by $443,448 and in 1945 by $302,442.

The Houston Post and Time, Inc., both contend their profits were abnormally low during the base period on which "excess profits" are calculated, resulting in unfairly high excess profits taxes later on.

The Post appeal said the Hobbys bought the paper in 1939 and instituted management reforms which brought higher profits in 1944 and 1945.

Time, Inc., appealed from a ruling by Andrews on Feb. 19, 1953. Its appeal says the company's magazine, Life, succeeded beyond what had been anticipated when Life was first published in November, 1936, and one result was an abnormally low base period of profits.

ROKs Throw-Back Chinese Attack On East Ridge

SEOUL, Friday, May 22—(AP)—Tough South Korean troops Thursday drove off Chinese Reds after a bitter 12-hour battle for an Allied outpost on a jagged Eastern Korean ridge.

Victory came for the South Koreans to their third counter-attack after 150 to 200 Chinese had smashed their way into the outpost southeast of Christmas Hill.

Driven from the western end of the 300-yard-long outpost, the South Koreans fought desperately and retained their hold on the eastern end, then mounted the first of three counter-attacks.

The third finally cleared the ridge of Reds.

Elsewhere along the 155-mile Korean battlefront, Chinese and North Korean Communists jabbed and probed Allied positions and a score of patrol flights flared in no man's land.

Clouds and haze restricted Allied air strikes to fighter-bomber attacks against front-line positions and supply and personnel areas behind Communist lines.

Grain Prices Settle After May Liquidation

CHICAGO, May 21—(AP)—Grains made a little progress on the upside on the Board of Trade today as the market no longer was subject to unsettlement caused by liquidation in May contracts.

There even was a little speculative buying in wheat, now that the May contract has been closed out. Some grain men evidently felt the bread cereal, selling around the lowest prices in three years, was entitled to at least a technical rally.

Wheat closed ½ to ¾ cent higher, corn ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher, oats ⅜ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, rye unchanged to ½ cent higher, and soybeans ¼ cent lower to ½ cent higher.

A little export business developed in wheat, but not enough to give prices a big boost. Italy bought 335,000 bushels and Great Britain 130,000 bushels.

Crossroads Comment

By G. H. S.

A headline reads: "F.D.R. Jr. Buys $3,500 Bull."

O Tempora! O Mores! How revolutionary the times. Remember when the Roosevelts were selling the bull instead of buying it?

Some appreciation of President Ike's dilemma in getting support for reduced government spending may be had by comparison with the newly-married, economy-minded step father trying to assert his authority over a family whose unrestrained extravagance for twenty years caused their blood father to give up the ghost.

Missouri Legislature Quits; Appropriation Outlook Dark

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21 (AP)—Missouri's 1953 legislative session collapsed today with no appropriation bills passed and little chance they would be passed before final adjournment May 31.

The Senate simply quit work and went home until May 30—too late to pass any bills before the constitutional date for final adjournment.

That left the House in this fix: It could either take the Senate figures on record appropriations of over $740,000,000, or it could go home, too, and let the session die with no money allotted to run the state government for the two years starting July 1. Present funds run out then.

So the House went home, too, until May 29, or until the speaker calls it back.

In a final hopeful gesture the House passed a resolution urging Gov. Donnelly to intercede. It asked the governor to send telegrams to the senators, requesting them to come back and finish their work.

The governor said he had received the House resolution but had nothing to say about it. He said he wanted to look into the matter.

But he added that he couldn't spend much time on it until Saturday at the earliest and probably not until Monday because he is going out of town tomorrow for a bar meeting at Joplin.

Donnelly said there didn't seem to be any emergency facing him.

The whole tangle, with both houses standing fast in their long tangle over the money bills, seemed to point toward a special session almost as soon as the regular session ends May 31.

If that happens—and the governor had no comment on that either—the special session would be limited to 60 days and to consideration of the subjects the governor outlines in his message calling the legislators back.

The resolution asking the governor to step in was sponsored by Rep. A. Clifford Jones (R) of St. Louis County. He said the chief executive was the only man with prestige enough to have any influence on the senators.

His plan drew support from both Republicans and Democrats, passing on an 84-23 vote.

But one member of the governor's party, Rep. Floyd L. Snyder (D) of Independence, said the resolution would be worthless. He said the senators were already on their way home and the only way to get them back would be to let the governor call a special session.

Even then, he said, the senators probably wouldn't budge from their position on appropriations.

"They've beat us and we're going to have to take it," he said.

"They're just too damn smart for us."

Saylor Hits Ranch Stand On Grazing

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—Ranchers backing a livestock grazing bill were told today they apparently "want to be put in a better position dealing with Uncle Sam than with private individuals."

The assertion was made by Rep. Saylor (R-Pa) a member of a House Interior subcommittee conducting hearings on the bill which opponents have termed a "big steal."

Saylor said that under the measure ranchers are demanding permanent use of government lands although it would be impossible to get a permanent lease from a private individual.

Thirty-five opponents are slated to testify against the controversial bill at tomorrow's hearing.

Proponents, mostly ranchers, testified today the bill is needed to clarify and make uniform laws and regulations governing the grazing of livestock on about 300 million acres of federal lands.

They were questioned closely about provisions of the bill which would give the ranchers a more-secure right to use the grazing lands.

Rep. Yorty (D-Calif) said most of the opposition to the bill is based on a belief that it would give the rancher a "vested interest" in the grazing land—a "permanent privilege" to grazing rights.

He said other objections had been made to a provision giving ranchers the right to sell or transfer grazing permits.

Many of the committee members questions and comments were directed at William B. Wright of Deeth, Nev., cattle rancher and spokesman for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. McCarthy (D-Minn) said the Chamber of Commerce is against closed shops for labor unions but it is supporting the grazing bill which he said in effect "advocates a closed shop."

A Tornado Kills At Least 7 As It Sweeps US-Canada Line

SARNIA, Ont., May 21 (AP)— A rare northern tornado sweeping across the U. S.-Canadian border late today dealt death and multi-million-dollar destruction in the twin cities of Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich., and beyond in Southwestern Ontario.

Seven persons were reported killed.

The twister blew part of a freight train off its tracks in Michigan.

Four dead had been identified by name late tonight. Others believed killed in the sudden moment of destruction were being sought by rescue crews digging in debris.

The identified and otherwise reported dead:

Port Huron: Charles La Forest of Port Huron; two others reported.

Springbank, Ont., a crossroads 40 miles east of Sarnia: Simon Thompson, 50, his 6-year-old daughter, Dorothy, and Miss Sarah McIntosh, about 80. They died in their shattered homes.

Sarnia: one dead, unconfirmed.

Many were injured, most of them apparently by flying glass and debris. Parts of the twin cities along the St. Clair River international boundary were left mounds of rubble.

Bulldozers plowed through wreckage and helped push aside fallen trees so ambulances laden with the inpured could reach hospitals.

After dipping down onto Sarnia-Port Huron, the tornado moved on to the east-northeast and again struck down in Ontario Province.

It hit the area of London, Ont., and destroyed most of the buildings in Elginfield, a highway junction on Ontario Highway No. 4. Help for that area was asked urgently by police and rescue workers. The Toronto Weather Bureau said late tonight the vortex of the storm had passed Toronto and headed out over Lake Ontario.

Downtown Sarnia was a tangle of building debris, overturned motor vehicles, and rescue workers searching wrecked buildings for casualties.

Some building were sheared off above the first story.

The picture in hard-hit Port Huron in the early evening was this:

The south end of the city was in bad shape with many roads still blocked with fallen trees. Ambulances were having difficulty in getting through. City hospitals and the U. S. Navy Training Center Hospital were handling a capacity number of cases.

A National Guard unit was on the alert, and its mobile searchlight unit was supplying power for the main city hospital.

The wind hit a Grand Trunk Line freight train and 15 of its 45 cars were hurled off the tracks, injuring two crewmen. They are William K. Gibbs, 52, of Detroit, conductor, and Robert Grant of Rerndale, Mich., brakeman.

St. Joseph Man Finds Advertising Pays-Off

ST. JOSEPH, May 21 (AP) — County Recorder Jack Utz now believes in newspaper advertising.

He lost his glasses a week ago and couldn't find them. He put a want ad in the News-Press and the Gazette and his glasses were returned to him the very day the ad ran for the first time.

His wife found them under the bed at their home.

Tito Charges Russia Keeps Guns On Him

BATAJNICA, Yugoslavia, May 21—(AP)—President Tito declared angrily today that relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet bloc are just as bad as ever, despite the recent softening of the Kremlin's five-year propoganda war against his independent Communist government.

"On the frontier still, their rifles are shooting our guards," Tito shouted, waving a clenched fist. "Their press is slandering us. If the USSR has softened its propaganda, that is not enough for our country to change its attitude and fall into the arms of those who have so badly harmed us. Any changes must be demonstrated by deeds, not words."

The President addressed a crowd of several thousand at this military airbase outside Belgrade on the 11th birthday of Yugoslavia's Red Air Force. Military attaches from the West were among the audience, made up mostly of members of Yugoslavia's armed forces. A scheduled air show was cancelled because of threatening rain.

Tito said rumors had circulated that his government, ousted from the Russian-led cominform in 1948 for failure to bow to Stalin's dictates, now was dealing secretly with Russia for a settlement.

"From this place, I say to you that relations between us and the USSR and countries under its influence have not improved," Tito declared.

These rumors of secret deals, which have cropped up periodically since the Tito-Stalin split, gained impetus recently from Moscow news dispatches, passed through Russian censorship, that reported a tendency toward more normal diplomatic relationship between Russia and Yugoslavia.

Even those dispatches, linking the tendency with the Malenkov peace offensive, said, however, that Yugoslav representatives in Moscow were quick to scotch any idea that this meant any real patching up of differences between the two governments.

Tito said Yugoslavia still wished "normal, tolerable relations" with the Soviet Union and her Eastern European allies, most of which are Balkan neighbors of this country.

"But," he added, "torlerable relations are not the present relations."

Marine Corps Names 78 Who May Be PWs

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—The Marine Corps today identified 78 additional officers and men who "may" be prisoners of war in Korea. All are currently listed among the 570 Marines officially reported missing in action.

Corps headquarters said that families of all the men have been notified that their men may be captives of the enemy.

Among those listed was Corp. Donald C. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adron A. Williams, Brumley, Mo.

Kansas Parson Shows He's Good Samaritan

PRATT, Kan., May 21—(AP)—John E. Mauldin was putting in a 30-foot cement sidewalk at his home.

He had completed pouring the cement and was preparing to trowel and mark the moist concrete when a stranger stopped to view the work.

The stranger offered to help—Mauldin gratefully accepted.

The man, who said his name was Brown, explained cement work used to be his trade as he neatly troweled and marked most of the sidewalk for the tired householder.

As the stranger turned to leave, Mauldin asked him what his business was now.

"I'm Rev. J. Lloyd Brown, pastor of the First Church of God."

An Arizona Girl Wins National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — An apple-cheeked Arizona girl who's had practically all her schooling on an Indian reservation walked off with the national spelling championship today.

Elizabeth Hess, 13, now an eighth grade pupil of the Sister of Charity at St. Matthew's School in Phoenix, won the crown by correctly spelling "soubrette" and "spermaceti" on top of tackling such jawcrackers as "crepuscular" and concinnity."

Runner-up in this 26th National Spelling Bee, which climaxed a coast-to-coast competition involving five million seventh and eighth graders, was Raymond A. Sokolov of Detroit, who's only 11 but who took part in last year's bee, too, and finished 22nd.

Third place among the 53 contestants went to another finalist in last year's contest, 13-year-old David Hudson of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. He ran sixth in 1952.

Jeraldine Fries of Tulsa, Okla., was 19th; and Valerie Ruemann, of St. Louis, was 26th.

Big Three Will Meet In Bermuda In June

Allies Think New Proposal Will End Tie

TOKYO, Friday, May 22 (AP)—An optimistic view was taken today by authoritative sources watching a revised Korean truce proposal round into shape at Allied headquarters. But Peiping's Red radio, anticipating the plan's presentation next week at Panmunjom, sounded a sour note.

The authoritative Allied sources, otherwise unidentified, said the revised plan—born out of long-range consultations with allies — possibly would be offered on a "now or never" basis. The Panmunjom talks will be resumed Monday.

Peiping Red radio, still insisting the Allies were to blame for the deadlock over the prisoner exchange issue, said reports of a revised plan amounted to "propaganda deception."

The authoritative Allied sources said the revised plan would include some of the India plan adopted last December by the U. N. General Assembly. The India plan called for a post-armistice political conference to consider the future of 48,500 Red prisoners refusing to go home.

It placed a 30-day time limit on this conference, after which prisoners still refusing to return would be placed in custody of the United Nations.

An eight-point Red plan offered at Panmunjom by North Korean Gen. Nam Il proposed a political conference to decide the prisoners' fate but placed no time limit on it.

But Allied counter-proposal by Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief Allied negotiator, rejected the political conference idea. It suggested immediate release to civilian status of 34,500 North Koreans balking at repatriation; then that a five-man neutral commission have custody of 14,000 balky Chinese for 60 days, after which, if their fate wasn't solved, they too would be released.

Ike Phones Churchill On Big Three Meeting

LONDON, May 21—(AP)—A diplomatic informant said tonight that President Eisenhower telephoned Prime Minister Churchill direct from the White House last night when he proposed a Big Three meeting. As a result, the informant said, Churchill worked far into the night planning details of the conference.

French Throw New Cabinet Out Of Power

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—The French National Assembly threw Premier Rene Mayer's four - month - old Cabinet out of office on a financial issue today, thereby casting a shadow over an impending three-power meeting Mayer was to attend with President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Churchill.

By a vote of 328-244, the Assembly declared its lack of confidence in the government.

Mayer had just announced that Britain, France and the United States had agreed to meet on the highest level in Bermuda in June to prepare for a possible Big Four conference with Russia.

This drew applause from some moderate and rightist deputies, but Mayer's critics were unmoved and the announcement failed to stave off defeat. Who will represent France at Bermuda is therefore a question. Presumably there will be a new government by then.

The Mayer cabinet, most conservative of the 18 that have ruled France since the liberation, was formed Jan. 7 after a 16-day crisis. Formation of a new government may be even more difficult this time, for the rapid turnover in Cabinets has made the task of Premier a thankless one.

The issue on which Mayer lost was a bill to give him special powers to slice a mounting deficit by decree. He demanded a vote of confidence on the issue.

In the background, however, was opposition to his proposal to cut the subsidy of 85 million dollars a year to wine and sugar beet growers for producing alcohol, and his proposals to levy new taxes on petroleum products, truck transport and some categories of cafes.

Deputies whose special interests were involved in these proposals concentrated against the special powers bill.

The 58-year-old premier has been running into trouble because expenses have been running higher than the budget estimates, and tax income has been running lower.

France's other economic problems include a heavy trade deficit, a dip in production, an overvalued franc that holds down exports, an increasing flight of capital and an Indochinese war that costs 1½ billion dollars a year.

Brief recurring strikes and many holidays—the French worker is on the job only about 245 days a year—have not helped.

Czechs Request Lift Of US Bans On Trade, Travel

VIENNA, Austria, May 21—(AP)—Czechoslovakia broadcast a call today for the United States to lift trade and travel restrictions imposed on that Communist nation in 1951 for the imprisonment of William N. Oatis, the newsman it called a spy.

A message from President Eisenhower March 30 to Czechoslovakia's President Antonin Zapotocky, made public in Washington only last night, was the peg for Prague's move to restore a multi-million dollar commerce now that the Associated Press correspondent has been freed.

The Communist newspaper Rude Pravo and the government-controlled Prague radio were the organs through which Czechoslovakia played up a statement by President Eisenhower that if Zapotocky released Oatis the United States "is prepared to negotiate on the basis of full mutual understanding the issues arising from the arrest of Mr. Oatis and now outstanding between us."

New York City Turns To Drive-In Church

NEW YORK, May 21—(AP)—The "drive-in" church service is coming to New York City.

The Protestant Council of Greater New York today announced it has arranged for Sunday services at the Whitestone Bridge Drive-In Theater in the Bronx June 7.

Bethany Votes June 16 On A Swimming Pool

BETHANY, Mo., May 21—(AP)—Bethany will vote again June 16 on a $65,000 bond issue for construction of a municipal swimming pool.

The proposal carried 696 to 178 in a special election April 7, but the result was nullified when the state auditor refused to register the bonds because of a ruling that the published notice of the election was inadequate.

Flood Claims Eighth Victim, Damage Mounts In Louisiana

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 21 (AP)—The rain-swollen Calcasieu River crested north of here late today while floodwaters climbed fence-deep around some 600 houses and the air force base in this southwest Louisiana port city.

The eighth drowning since flood waters began covering Louisiana last week was reported at Opelousas, 70 miles northeast of here. Emerson Robinson, 30, of Dequincy was drowned north of Opelousas when a boat struck a railroad bridge and turned over.

U. S. weatherman Paul Cook said the Calcasieu crested for three straight hours at 16 feet—12 feet above flood stage—at Old Town Bay, a key city river gauge four miles to the north.

Sheriff H. A. Reid placed property damage in this city of 50,000 at more than two million dollars and said upwards of 1,750 families had been driven from their homes here.

The Red Cross said that in other sections of Louisiana more than 4,000 families had been forced from their residences as a result of five days of tornadoes and violent rain-storms that poured nearly 12 inches of water on the state.

Exclusive of unestimated damage to the thousands of dwellings and buildings, damage to crops topped 100 million dollars and to highways three million dollars.

Muck covered farm fields and littered roads began reappearing slowly from the draining flood waters except in the Lake Charles area. This city lies along the banks of the Calcasieu River into which much of the water upstate has poured.

A stiff south wind yesterday and today held back the normal flow of the overwhelmed river channel to the Gulf of Mexico, and on-coming water caused the flood.

At the Air Force Base, two miles east of Lake Charles, bombers and other planes were huddled together on the dry concrete runways.

All Air Force buildings and living quarters were in water.

Most of the 600 flooded homes were in the area of the Air Force base. Some homes on the northern edge of Lake Charles flooded too, and even in the fashionable Lakefront section of the city about 30 homes were either flooded or surrounded by water.

A hastily erected dyke near the Air Force base spared about 300 small dwellings from the flood, but rising waters lapped at the very top of the dyke.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Lake Charles said the Calcasieu would reach five feet above flood stage by nightfall. The river may crest later tonight, but the Weather Bureau wouldn't make an official prediction.

They'll Seek Best Answer On Russia

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—President Eisenhower plans to meet in Bermuda next month with Prime Minister Churchill and the Premier of France to strengthen the Big Three alliance and discuss the advisability of a high-level meeting with the Russians.

News of the conference was announced simultaneously today in Washington, London and Paris. The French Foreign Office said it will begin June 17.

Soon afterward, however, the French National Assembly denied Premier Rene Mayer a vote of confidence and his Cabinet collapsed. Presumably Mayer's successor will go to Bermuda, but the French political crisis could delay the meeting. (Story in column 7).

It was understood that Eisenhower proposed the get-together and that Churchill suggested it be held on the sunny British island about 700 miles off this country's Atlantic coast.

The President issued a statement saying the primary purpose of the face-to-face meeting of the Big Three leaders was to tackle "the many problems that must be solved co-operatively so that the world cause of peace may be advanced."

Churchill Looks Ahead

But Churchill and Mayer immediately saw in the consultation a path toward a later meeting with Kremlin leaders. "My main hope," Churchill told Parliament, "is that we may take a definite step forward to a meeting of far graver import" — with Soviet Premier Geogi M. Malenkov.

A State Department spokesman here said cautiously the agreement to meet "does not commit the United States, or so far as we know, the British or the French to any ultimate four power meeting."

Eisenhower's statement did not mention the possibility of a later meeting with the Communists.

Members of Congress received news of the Bermuda conference with general approval. Many of them saw in it an opportunity for the Western Powers to iron out the differences among themselves before attempting any sort of approach to Malenkov.

"It would be a fatal mistake," said Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), chairman of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate, "to go into a four-power meeting with a wide divergence of opinion among the Allies about Korea and other unsettled problems because the Communist technique is aimed at dividing the Allies."

Eisenhower's statement said the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France have been in consultation about the idea of holding "an informal high-level meeting."

"We have agreed that such a meeting is desirable at a date convenient to all of us," the President went on.

They'll Unite Views

"A primary purpose will be further to develop common viewpoints with these friends on the many problems that must be solved cooperatively so that the cause of world peace may be advanced."

Diplomatic informants here said one purpose of the meeting undoubtedly is to shore up faltering Allied unity in the face of a number of pressing problems, including the dragging truce talks in Korea.

Nehru To Hold Second Meeting With Mr. Dulles

NEW DELHI, India, May 21—(AP)—Secretary of State Dulles and Prime Minister Nehru stirred intense speculation here today by agreeing to an unscheduled conference after their second confidential talk in as many days.

Dulles and Nehru emerged smiling after talking together for an hour and three-quarters and announced they would meet again tomorrow. They had had their first serious talk yesterday.

Previously Dulles' schedule for his 20-day tour of Middle East and South Asian nations had not allowed for another meeting with Nehru. He had planned to visit the Taj Mahal, hold a news conference and then leave for Karachi, capital of neighboring Pakistan, early tomorrow.

He refused to tell newsmen what he and the Indian Prime Minister had talked about, but Nehru said:

"Certainly we discussed Korea. But we were able to talk about a great many things this morning —I would say Korea roughly was one-tenth of what we covered."

Auto Accident Fatal To Stotts City Man

Miller operated a service station west of Mt. Vernon.

Robert Day, also of Stotts City, a passenger in the car, was reported in a critical condition at a Springfield hospital.

Ike Offered Concessions To Free Oatis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia, in freeing Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis, acted six weeks after President Eisenhower offered to consider easing trade and travel restrictions against the Czechs.

The White House last night released copies of messages exchanged between Eisenhower and new Czech President Antonin Zapotocky.

Eisenhower's message, dated March 30, told Zapotocky that if he would release Oatis the U. S. would be willing to negotiate lifting of sanctions imposed against Czechoslovakia when the newsman was jailed 25 months ago.

Zapotocky's reply, dated May 15, informed Eisenhower that Oatis was being pardoned on that day and would not have to complete the rest of his 10-year sentence on conviction of "spying."

U. S. Ambassador George Wadsworth and Czech Prime Minister Siroky handled the exchange between the two chief executives.

The Czech government through its controlled radio today called for the U. S. to terminate its economic restrictions against the country now that Oatis is free.

Radio Prague, heard in Vienna, broadcast the text of the notes to Czech listeners and quoted an editorial from the Czech Communist party organ, Rude Pravo, calling on Eisenhower to lift the sanctions.

In his public announcement of Oatis' freeing May 15, Zapotocky had said he acted on a direct appeal for mercy from Mrs. Oatis. At that time the State Department said "there wasn't any deal" between the U. S. and Czechoslovakia to free the newsman.

The White House also said last night that a week before Oatis was released Secretary of State Dulles "made diplomatic representations" to the Czech government.

The announcement also said Mrs. Oatis personally visited Dulles March 7. It said Dulles told her then the U. S. government would do all in its power to get her husband free.

Mrs. Oatis said in New York she wrote Eisenhower and Dulles, after the new administration took office Jan. 20, because she wanted to preserve the continuity of her efforts to free her husband. For the same reason, she said, she visited Dulles.

Oatis, on his return to the U. S. Monday, declined to say whether he served the U. S. government in any capacity while he was Associated Press correspondent at Prague. He said he would stand on the record of his trial for the time being.

Last night, however, he issued a statement in New York in which he denied ever spying for the American Embassy while a newsman in Czechoslovakia.

He said "the cause of my trouble" was that he got news tips from sources other than official Czech news outlets, then checked them with the U. S. Embassy in an effort to gain more information.

Such practice is routine in Western countries, he said, but under Czech law "can be construed . . . to be espionage."

His purpose in going to the U. S. Embassy, Oatis said, was to get information—not to give it. He added:

"But at no time did I act as an espionage agent of the embassy in the sense that this term is understood in Western countries within the range of my experience."

Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The AP, said Oatis and his wife Laurabelle are going into temporary seclusion, after which Oatis will return to New York and write the story of his experiences.

In a statement, Starzel said Oatis will first be given a thorough medical examination, lasting about two days, after which the couple will leave on a trip.

Starzel added:

"When Mr. Oatis is thoroughly rested he will return to the New York area and undertake to acquaint himself with the record of his trial, to background himself on developments since his arrest and then to write the story of his experiences.

"This probably will take the form of a series of articles to be distributed to members of The Associated Press.

"Additionally, advance copies will be made available to news agencies and all news media which apply therefor. They will be privileged to utilize the information contained therein with some reasonable limitation on direct quotation of Mr. Oatis' own words."

The Czech announcement of Oatis' pardon May 15 did not mention the Eisenhower-Zapotocky exchange. It told only of Mrs. Oatis' request to "heed a simple plea for mercy and put an end to this bitterly unhappy situation in which my husband and I are entrapped."

The State Department said May 15 that, with Oatis' release, "we are now in position to give consideration to the removal of those restrictions" it imposed when he was imprisoned.

The restrictions were these:

1. A barrier to Czech exports to the U. S., which had been running as high as 20 million dollars a year.
2. A ban on oil exports from the U. S. to Czechoslovakia.
3. A policy against travel to Czechoslovakia by any American not on essential official business.
4. A ban against flights of Czech commercial planes over the U. S. zone of Germany. With Britain and French co-operation, this cut off Czech flights over all West Germany.

Sneed reported to State Trooper Pete Stohr that he was driving east along the highway when one of the sides of the truck began to give way, causing him to lose control of the truck. He swerved to the north side of the highway and the left rear dual wheels struck a culvert, knocking them off and sending the truck into the ditch and overturning.

The sacks of feed, seven tons in all, were broken open as they spilled from the truck and feed scattered about the ground. The bed of the truck was demolished. The damage to the truck was estimated at several hundred dollars and the feed loss was also reported to be several hundred dollars.

Farmer Claims Amorous Bull Reduces His Milk Production

MADISON, Wis., May 21—(AP)—Small Claims Judge Douglas Nelson took under advisement today the case of the overly amorous highbrow bull.

Raymond Uphoff, Cottage Grove farmer, charged in a suit that Lowcowis Supreme, a purebred bull, had crashed through a fence to his pasture to sire two calves born to Smokie and Frances, his two youngest heifers, in 1951.

"They were just too young," Uphoff said, asking $300 because of a loss in milk production from the pair since their early love affair.

"My heifers were only a year old. Anyway, I always breed my cattle through artificial insemination."

He seeks the damages from Mary and Nancy Clark, owners of the bull, and John Keller, of Deerfield, who operated a farm for the Clark sisters.

Each Drop $180 In Value

Before the incident, Smokie and Frances were worth $300 each as dairy cattle, but after Lowcowis' visit, they were worth only $120 apiece, as beef cattle, Uphoff told Judge Nelson.

The sisters testified they were living in Cottage Grove at the time and did not know when the bull arrived at their farm.

The case recalled a celebrated Wisconsin Supreme Court decision of 1911 in which the owner of a heifer was awarded $75. Justice Barnes in his review of the 1911 case, said:

"This plebian bull, lowly born and nameless, having aspirations beyond his humble station in life, wandered beyond confines of his own pastures, and sought the society of adolescent, unsophisticated Martha—contrary to provisions of Section 1482, statutes of 1898.

"Martha was a thoroughbred Holstein Friesian."

Calf Ends-Up In Cooker

Discussing the calf that resulted from the union, Justice Barnes continued:

"Its sinister birth disqualified the hybrid calf born from becoming a candidate for pink ribbons at county fairs. It was sold to a Chicago butcher for $75 and was probably served up as pressed chicken to the epicures in some Chicago boarding house.

"Martha was a genuine highbrow having a pedigree as long and as least as well authenticated as that of the ordinary scion of effete Europe nobility who breaks into this land of democracy and equality and offers his title to the highest bidder at the matrimonial bargain counter.

Smith Refuses To Give Answer On Red Activity

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Edwin S. Smith, a National Labor Relations Board member for seven years under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, refused to tell Senate investigators today whether he was a Communist now or when he held his federal job.

At one point, Smith burst out angrily: "I am not a spy. I never have and never will engage in espionage in connection with the Soviet government."

Smith was a witness before the Senate internal security subcommittee, which is investigating what Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) calls "the pattern of Communist infiltration of the government."

A tall man in his 60s, Smith refused time and again to answer questions about alleged Communist connections. He based his refusals on the Fifth Amendment, which permits witnesses to decline to answer questions which might tend to incriminate them.

Windstorm Hits Iowa Cities, Kills One Man

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., (AP) — A severe windstorm struck this northeast Iowa city of 73,000 late last night causing extensive property damage and bringing minor injuries to several persons.

Numerous other northeast and north central Iowa towns and cities also were hit by the high winds. At Waterloo, 50 miles northwest of Cedar Rapids, George Lemons, 53, was crushed to death when a large tree blew over and demolished his small home.

In Cedar Rapids, estimates of damage ranged from $100,000 upwards. There were 1,500 to 2,500 Cedar Rapids telephone circuits out and 1,000 homes were without power. Several persons suffered minor injury from flying or falling debris.

The Iowa weather bureau in Des Moines said that although there were numerous severe windstorms in front of a squall line which moved across the state, there were no reports of tornadoes. Official warnings of the possibility of tornadoese in western Iowa had been issued prior to the storm.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

When and if the three great Western Allies hold their Bermuda conference, France and Britain will be chiefly interested in relations with Soviet Russia and the first interest of the United States will be in relations with Britain and France.

That was made clear in the statements issued Thursday by Eisenhower, Churchill and Mayer.

Mayer may not be there—his cabinet fell within hours of the announcement of plans for the meeting, having ripped over strictly domestic issues. But his attitude is indigenous to France, and he or whoever forms a new cabinet is expected to attend the conference and work from the same viewpoint. There may have to be a change in date.

The State Department made it clear, after the French and British prime ministers had expressed their hopes that the Bermuda conference would lead to a larger one with Russia, that the U. S. was not committing itself to anything beyond the President's expressed desire for "a further development of common viewpoints" among the big three.

This was also implicit in the developments which led to the President's invitation. Just when his idea began to germinate was not known. Churchill made a speech suggesting a top level conference with Russia, about which the U. S. is skitty. Clement Attlee, former Laborite prime minister, made some statements which stirred great anger in the U. S., although later perusal of his full text took out some of the sting. For days statements have been flying back and forth.

Then, Wednesday, Churchill was asked in parliament if he didn't think he ought to get Eisenhower over there and try to straighten out the policy differences between the two nations, particularly with regard to Russia and the Far East. Churchill carefully replied that he wasn't magnifying the differences by any such idea, but that he'd like to see Eisenhower over there, of course.

At the same time, in Washington, a new storm was being created by charges in Congress that British ships out of Hong Kong had been used to transport Communist troops in the Korean area. The implication was promptly and flatly denied, the British saying that if any such thing occurred it involved ships captured by the Reds.

But the storm was at a new peak. Eisenhower held late sessions with his advisors Wednesday, the suggestion for a conference went to Churchill and Mayer overnight, and acceptances were swift and eager.

Despite U. S. doubts about the value of risking a diplomatic failure, with its consequent spiritual let-down among free peoples everywhere, the pressures have been growing for a four-power conference ever since Stalin died and Russia intensified her talk about the possibility of peaceful settlements.

France, Britain, India, the Vatican and many lesser powers have taken official stands for it. Russia has said it suits her.

They just don't think the dangers which preoccupy the United States are as great as the possible benefits, or that any stone should be left unturned, as an expression of attitude, even if benefits are impossible.

The Prime Minister will come to Bermuda eager on this point. Eisenhower will say let's get together on these other things—Britain's warmish policy toward Red China, France's ratification of the European Defense Treaty, establish a common front toward Russia and keep it that way—and then see about the timeliness of a four-power conference.

Eisenhower and general State Department policy has made it perfectly clear that there is no closed mind about such a conference. The administration just wants what it considers a proper lineup, including some indications of good faith from Russia, before it plunges in.

Bill Revamps Park System Of Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY (AP — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly signed today a bill reorganizing Missouri's state park system—a major plank in his campaign and his inaugural message to the Legislature.

The new law, effective 90 days after the legislature adjourns, puts the parks under a six-member bipartisan board to be appointed by the governor. It will replace the present park board composed of the governor, attorney general and state conservation director.

The new board will select operators of the state parks on the basis of sealed bids and the concessionaires will be limited to a net profit of $10,000 a year.

This provision is aimed at criticism that some of the concessionaires under the present system were making up to $60,000 or $70,000 a year. Until recently, they have been required to give the state only five per cent of their gross take, keeping 95 per cent for themselves.

The board members will get $10 a day when they meet, but not more than $1,000 a year.

Donnelly said his experience on the park board during his first term convinced him that something should be done to improve the system of park management. He called the new law "a step in the right direction."

During his first term the Legislature also passed a bill to revamp the park board but Donnelly vetoed that one on the grounds it was no improvement.

Another bill signed today makes it possible to sue a father for non-support even though he does not have care and custody of the child.

Wet Weather, Worms Hitting Cotton Fields

POPLAR BLUFF, (AP) — Wet weather and an invasion of army worms have hit Southeast Missouri's cotton fields, with some estimates of the probable crop damage ranging up to 50 per cent.

Young cotton plants in some lowland sections of Dunklin and Pemiscot Counties were dying after a week of rain and cool nights that has virtually halted growth.

Army worms threatened the crop in Stoddard, Scott and Mississippi Counties. But county agents reported this might be offset by spraying now under way.

The wet weather has stimulated week growth.

In Butler County, a belt of wind-driven hail which swept across the southeastern quarter of the county Sunday night cut tender cotton plants to ribbons.

Because of the ldate date, most farmers over the six-county area have given up hope of replanting cotton and plan to replace the damaged cotton with late plantings of soybeans and corn.

Ridgway Urges Western Counter Of Russian Aims

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Gen. Matthew W. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander in Europe, called on the Western Allies tonight for new, positive actions to counter what he described as Russia's unchanged objectives and implacable hostility.

"We stand in just as great a peril as ever we stood before," Ridgway said, adding that "we know that the Soviet Communist forces could, with relatively little warning, strike at any point of their choice in Europe."

The threat of Russia's atomic capabalities also must be faced, the next Army chief of staff said in a speech before the American Council on NATO.

Underscoring his contention that available Allied forces are "still very inadequate" against the Soviet threat, Ridgway said that while Western strength has increased so has that of "our potential adversary, the discrepancy remains greater than could be overcome within the immediate future, unless we continue to make great efforts."

NEW DELHI, India, May 21—(AP)—Mountaineering experts speculated tonight that the British Everest expedition may have completed its assault on the world's highest peak. Success or failure remains the secret of backward Himalayan communications.

Four weeks and three days have passed since Col. John Hunt and his 14-man team reached their base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain. The final ascent was originally due to begin on May 15, allowing time for another attempt in the event of initial failure, before the monsoon drives the climbers from the mountainside.

Yorty Insists Ike's Program Hits Air Arm

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—Rep. Yorty (D-Calif) today quoted the Air Force as saying President Eisenhower's program for building up the nation's defenses will result in air strength well below "the absolute minimum" for national security.

Yorty read into the Congressional Record a statement he said the Air force gave him a response to a request.

Meanwhile, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) told Secretary of Defense Wilson that before Congress agrees to slice five million dollars from Air Force funds Wilson will have to show how the saving will make the Air Force more powerful.

That statement was included among 32 questions Mrs. Smith submitted in writing to Wilson.

Many of the questions were highly critical of the administration's plan to reduce the goal of 143 combat wings for the Air Force.

No immediate reply came from Wilson, who left the capital today to discuss the aircraft setup with industry leaders.

The statement Yorty read into the record was even more critical of the air program than Mrs. Smith's.

It quoted the Air Force as saying the cut in funds would have a "drastic impact" on this nation's aircraft industry, that it would limit the Air Force's manpower, funds and authority to make new obligations.

The woman senator asked Wilson:

"How can you cut more than five billion dollars from the Air Force appropriations, cut back the Air Force's strength to 114 wings, and still say that the Air Force will be more powerful in 1954 than if the original plan had been followed of building a 143-wing Air Force by 1954?"

In testimony before a Senate appropriations subcommittee yesterday, Wilson said he was convinced the shift in Air Force planning would give this nation a better Air Force in less time than the program set forth by former President Harry S. Truman.

Father Time Stops Women's Blood Donations

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — It took Father Time to stop blood donations by two St. Louis women.

The two close friends gave a total of 212 pints of blood before age requirements forced them to stop.

Mrs. Emma Conrad, 64, donated 111 pints since 1928 and Mrs. Anna Keimeier, almost 61, gave 101 pints since 1938. Both are past presidents of the old St. Louis Blood Donors Society, disbanded after hospitals and the Red Cross established blood banks.

"When we started," Mrs. Keimeier said, "we gave blood direct, as it was needed by a person. I began giving blood after reading about a man at Barnes Hospital needing transfusions. I decided to go out and have a try at it, and before I was through I had given 14 pints for that man."

Mrs. Conrad gave her 111th pint four years ago, stopping only because the Red Cross and physicians placed an age limit of 60 years on blood donors.

The last donation from Mrs. Keimeier came a little past the age limit "but a friend of mine needed blood several months ago and she talked to the doctor and he said that as long as I was feeling all right he'd let me donate."

Mrs. Keimeier summed up both women's feelings this way:

"I feel like I ought to keep going-I feel good."

Many Observe Special Day At Air Base

35th Division Joins Air Force In Show Of Military Might

Armed Forces Day was observed at the Sedalia Air Force Base, south of Knob Noster, Saturday when the 35th Infantry Division, Missouri National Guards, joined with the United States Air Forces in providing an appropriate exhibition of military equipment. In spite of the weather a good crowd visited the base between 1 p. m. and 6 p. m.

Probably the most thrilled over the event were several hundred children who accompanied their parents. From the time they were permitted to go out on the runways to the big planes until it was time to "close down", the children were in and out of the planes and filled with questions. Air Force men assigned to the planes were kept busy by children asking "what's this and what's that" while mother and dad stood by quietly wondering and learning through the questions of their children.

One Air Force non-commissioned officer remarked," it's been fun, but how these kids can ask questions."

The planes were not the only attraction. Down the runway were a line of various military vehicles, and much to the enjoyment of the youngsters were the two fire trucks. These vehicles belonged to both the 35th Division and the Air Force, all a necessary need for the armed forces.

The B-29 bomber and KC-97 a refueling plane with its large refueling attachment, brought question after question of those giving it an inspection.

The ground equipment was displayed by the units of the division from Sedalia and Warrensburg. Men from these two units were also on hand to explain the various exhibits.

The American Red Cross chapters from Warrensburg and Sedalia also participated as did Boy Scouts from the surrounding area.

The Navy made an attempt to get to the field with two fighter planes. They flew in from Olathe Naval Air Base, and were over the field, but due to weather conditions had to turn back to their home base. The Naval formation flight of PB4Ys and the Air Force formation of B-29s also had to be cancelled.

Members of the Missouri State Highway Patrol handled the traffic to and from the base.

The purpose of the open house was to give the public a better understanding of the nation's defense capability both on land and in air.

Col. Franklin K. Reyher, commanding officer of the Sedalia Air Force Base, said, "The weather no doubt kept many away from the base. However, we here at the SAFB appreciate the visit of the several hundred who did come and I am sure they enjoyed every minute of their visit. It is our sincere hope that when we have our next open house, weather conditions will be such that all those who didn't get to come to help participate in Armed Forces Day will be able to come then."

Garden Club Council Pleases Crowd With Its Flower Show

The Sedalia Garden Club Council flower show sparkled with "Jewels of the Garden" Saturday at the Smith-Cotton Cafeteria. Although the members of the club worried for fear they would not have enough flowers to make a showing they presented one of the most beautiful shows yet.

The cafeteria, with its glass block windows added much to the picture of beauty and color. Imagination in arrangements and the artistic ability of the flower growers brought admiration from the crowds of people during the afternoon and evening.

In the center of the room were tables placed in the shape of a cut gem and in the center in glittering letters were: "Jewels of the Garden", the theme of the show. Each table in the center held arrangements of flowers the color of some gem, the sapphire, topaz, ruby, turquoise, amethyst, jade and emerald and moonstone.

Tables spread in all directions and on these were horticulture, with new and old varieties, common and rare specimen, big and little and of all colors.

Some of the spring flowers, such as the tulips were still hanging on to give the touch of spring to the show and there were flowers that will bloom in mid-summer.

Big red poppies soared high over tiny violas, sweet rockets, larkspur, columbine, and even a Jack-in-the-pulpit. The old-fashioned bleeding hearts and new and old varieties of iris.

Several tables held house plants, african violets, and vines.

The fisherman idea was carried out by women who put their flowers, their containers and their ideas together in clever arrangements even to the extent of having tiny fish swimming around.

Sentiment and beauty combined in arrangements of flowers by candlelight and the division of inspiration and aspiration produced unique arrangements in which even small green bananas were used.

Arrangements from roadside material showed works of art, the flower and madonna combinations gave the sacred touch, the gay little Floradora with their big flowered hats and the flamingo group all attracted attention.

The Junior Garden Clubs had an exhibit brought smiles to the faces of those looking over the show. Vegetable dolls and one of them riding in a canoe made out of a cucumber. The center of the table had three tiers of arrangements in the center topped with a vase of iris in May pole effect and all around were dolls with pansy faces.

Each Garden Club decorated a table for the show carrying out the idea of the birthstone of the month, and the tables were in a setting of glass blocks and crepe paper roping.

Horiculture judges were—Mrs. A. B. Cowley, chairman, and Mrs. F. J. Chapel, both of Jefferson City, and Mrs. W. M. Pope of Eldon; arrangement—Mrs. Dale Atterbury, chairman, Mrs. B. E. Woolery and Mrs. R. H. Ohlson, all of Camdenton; junior division —Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, and Mrs. Wilford Acker, Sedalia.

Results of the judging will be found on page 15, column 3.

Weather Costs More Than All Gov't of 1834

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States spends more money forecasting the weather now than it cost to run the whole government during Andy Jackson's administration.

Whether either the climate or the government has improved since then is a matter of personal opinion. It's reported that the Weather Bureau's appropriation for the last fiscal year was $26,970,000 in contrast to total government expenditures of $24,601,982 in 1834.

But the dollar would buy more than three times as much wholesale then, so in terms of 1953 dollars it actually cost only about eight million to run the government in 1834. The tax collectors are taking in about 68½ billion dollars a year now, compared to some 22 million then—about 3,000 times as much in face-value dollars but only about 1,000 time as much if you put 1834 and 1953 dollars on the same basis.

Federal taxes on cigarettes—unknown in Old Hickory's time—were more than 1½ billion dollars last year. Congress appropriated 33 million dollars to run the Selective Service System, 69 million for the Forest Service and 90 million for the FBI.

Former President Truman, in his last budget before leaving office in January, estimated that a total of $78,600,000,000 would be needed to operate the government in the next fiscal year, which starts July 1. However, some top Republicans have been talking of cutting this by six to 10 billion.

President Eisenhower says he hopes to save 8½ billion dollars in new appropriations in the next fiscal year. It does not follow, however, that actual spending would drop that much, even if Congress goes along. Much of the money Congress appropriates one year is carried over to future years. There have been estimates that an 8½ billion cut in next year's appropriations might mean a reduction of only 5½ billion in actual spending.

Although individual income taxes, corporate levies and excise (sales) taxes now bring in the bulk of the revenue, in Jackson's day the government relied chiefly on customs duties and cash from the sale of public lands.

It cost only $469,074 to operate Congress, but at that time there were only about half as many members. They received $6 for each day's attendance. Congress set up $61,731,725 for its salaries and running expenses last year, when it had 531 members.

Some of the main obligations of the government more than a century ago were $2,435,403 for the Army and $3,901,356 for the naval establishment; Revolutionary War pensions $3,507,484, Indian affairs $1,912,981, breakwaters and piers $435,761 and improving rivers $240,000.

A total of $658,608 was appropriated for general expenses of the executive departments and $338,758 for the judiciary in 1833.

Other items included $313,930 for light houses, $753,688 for roads, $18,313 for coastal surveys and $117,166 for the Military Academy.

The Army stood at a low level of manpower—less than half a modern division. Hugh Murray, an early-day student of government, attributed this in a book to a comjealousy."

Murray jotted down the regulars strength as two regiments of dragoons, four regiments of artillery and seven of infantry, plus the Corps of Engineers, the topographical engineers and the ordnance department.

Industry Fund Drive Began Here Monday

It is investments set up on a business like plan that a group of 50 or more Sedalians are offering other men and women of Sedalia when they call on them this week. This time it is not donations for something but an opportunity to buy an investment in the future of Sedalia with a return on their money.

In order to bring industries to Sedalia there must be a fund of $100,000 for buildings where these industries may start and these buildings will be rented and later sold, if the company wants them, through the Sedalia Improvement Association, Inc.

The drive opened Monday and will last a week. About 40 persons attended the kick-off breakfast Monday morning at Bothwell Hotel and captains for the new industrial drive and their committees are already at work. The one bringing in the most money in cash and pledges will receive an award of merchandise manufactured by the first industry which expects to locate in Sedalia soon.

The four teams are as follows: Whirlwind Kenny Love and his Breezes, Mike O'Connor, W. C. Askew, J. F. Downs, A. R. Smith, Maurice Hogan, Cline Cain, Charles Hofheins, Kennie Miller, Henry Salveter and Chester Wolfe.

Chill-Aire Bob Overstreet and his Trade Winds, Harry Naugel, John Zander, Philip McLaughlin, J. Harold Seaberg, W. A. Smith, George Routszong, Dan Doty, J. J. McGrath, Cliff Barr, Ken Carrell, A. B. Warren and George Dugan.

Tornado Julius Stohr and his Wind Jammers, William Wright, Robert Cain, Dan Robinson, William Schien, Frank Buchanan, Jack Cunningham, Elmer Adams, Leon M. Hall, Leonard Peabody and Charles Handley.

Hurricane Bert Hathaway and his Cyclones, George Lockett, Cecil Dump, Ray Lippard, Mrs. Anna Bagby, Ray Jiedel, Al Zurcher, M. D. Weathers, Floyd Priddy, J. W. Watts, John Schondelmeyer and Mrs. Katheryn Rosencrans.

This is not an offer to buy stock or notes in the industry, but to buy in the Sedalia Improvement Association, Inc., which is controlled by the investors. The title to the land and buildings remains in the Sedalia Improvement Association, Inc., until the lease is paid and terminated. Those who cannot now offer the cash may make a pledge which must be signed in order to be valid and pledges must be paid within approximately 30 days.

The members of each team must report to their captain every night and the captain in turn will report to Mrs. Ike L. Warren at the Chamber of Commerce offcie in order that a record of the progress of the drive be kept day by day.
